MID-EAST CRISIS

ATHENS—Greek Premier Karamanlis demands "decisive intervention" by United States in the explosive Cyprus situation. Fearing Communist-inspired anti-British riots, Greek government bans mass meetings, cancels horse-racing and all athletic events, but hits out at Britain by suspending the teaching of English in schools, shutting down of British Institute and four British-subsidized agencies.

Cyprus Strike Spreads

NICOSIA—General strike spreads like wildfire, paralyzing all business on Cyprus. Sporadic riots quelled by troops. British hero-author of Second World War, Major Tony Dean-Drummond, in critical condition after being stoned by mob. Cypriot rioter, aged 17, killed when hand grenade he was about to throw at a military ambulance exploded in his hand.

Commons Debate Wednesday

LONDON—Government takes full responsibility for exiling of Archbishop Makarios, Cypriot leader, and refuses further negotiations until Cyprus produces "moderate leaders." Eden confers with military chiefs, schedules Cyprus debate in Commons Wednesday.

U.S. Pressure Indicated

WASHINGTON—U.S. pressure to reopen British-Cyprus talks predicted after President Eisenhower discusses Mid-East situation with top state department officials.

11 Die in Anti-British Riots

MANAMA—Eleven killed, 15 wounded in anti-British riots on the oil-rich Persian Gulf island of Bahrain.

155 Dead in Algiers Bloodshed

ALGIERS—Weekend of bloodshed and terror kills 155 in France's revolt-ridden North Africa territory.

Mollet Wins Wide Powers

PARIS—Premier Mollet wins by wide margins the first two votes on laws giving him special powers to combat terrorism in Algeria.

Premier Making No Plans For Sommers-Sturdy Probe

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today has given no further consideration to appointment of a judicial commission to inquire into the Sommers-Sturdy case.

Stakers Fly To Ore Find Near Kamloops

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Reports of a rich mineral strike 60 miles north of Kamloops, on the North Thompson river, has sent a rush of prospectors and miners into the area.

Saturday a charter service was running shuttle flights into the area from Kamloops. First reports of a rich strike were received five days ago.

The area—about 30 miles long and 25 miles wide—is believed to contain copper, zinc, lead, silver, and uranium.

Bold Safecrackers Hit City Wholesaler

BRITISH JET BEATS U.S.-HELD WORLD MARK

LONDON (AP)—Britain announced Sunday that its "droop snoot" jet plane had recaptured the world speed record from the United States with a run of 1,132 miles per hour.

The record-breaker is a dart-like jet formally known as the Fairey Delta 2.

It turned in the high-speed performance over a nine-mile course in southern England Saturday.

The jet flew at 38,000 feet. It made two runs, one at 1,117 miles an hour, and the second at 1,147 miles an hour.

Bennett Hopeful Of New Tax Deal

Returned Premier Will Try For 'Better State of Goodwill'

By TOM GOULD, Times Legislative Reporter
Premier W. A. C. Bennett today laid down an entirely new policy of "goodwill" toward the federal government.

In a major statement of policy, the premier told a press conference today "we are going to try to create a better state of goodwill" between the two governments.

Two disclosures were made during the press conference:
1. The premier said he is "hopeful, for the first time," at a mutually satisfactory tax agreement will be worked out by Ottawa and B.C.

2. Northern Affairs and Natural Resources Minister Jean Lesage and his advisors will come to B.C. in the spring to discuss "a fresh look" at development of the hydro-rich Columbia Basin.

On every previous occasion, the premier's return from Ottawa has been marked by a bitter blast at the central Liberal administration. He has called Ottawa's attitude to B.C. "unfair" and "discriminatory." Observers read into his statements today a major shift in Social Credit policy.

FEELING "BETTER"

"The whole feeling at this conference was better," remarked the premier.
The B.C. delegation met privately with Prime Minister St. Laurent and his aides on Saturday morning, following a full-scale meeting of the provincial premiers and federal representatives Friday.

"I can't give you any details, but I came out (of the separate meeting) more pleased and more hopeful than a satisfactory agreement will be worked out than ever before," said Premier Bennett.

NEW LOOK

The premier said today his government, and Ottawa, are going to "take a new look, a fresh look," at the development of the Columbia Basin.

He predicted Mr. Lesage would arrive in B.C. "some time this spring to discuss the Columbia River," and that he hoped this conference would be a preliminary to an international conference on the Columbia.

B.C. and Ottawa were at odds for months as a result of a B.C. proposal to allow Kaiser Aluminum interests to dam the Columbia at the outlet of Lower Arrow Lakes.

$1,000 Cash Taken In Weekend Raid

Mattock-swinging safecrackers made a $1,000 haul from a Johnson Street food warehouse overnight Saturday, the second safecracking on Vancouver Island in three days.

The yeggs hacked their way through the bottom of a safe at A. P. Slade (Victoria) Ltd., 95 Johnson Street.

Two other break-ins also are under investigation by city detectives.

About $139 was taken from Shepherd's Dairy, 1645 Fort, and $250 worth of tools and automotive equipment was stolen from Capital City Service Ltd. garage, 2650 Douglas.

WARNING

Victoria police were warned Friday by Nanaimo RCMP to be on the alert for safecrackers who blew a safe at Island Bottling Ltd., Nanaimo, and escaped with $500. The safe was blown with such force a dial flew through the roof of the building.

But city police said today they doubt if the two thefts are the work of the same gang.

The safecrackers apparently found no difficulty in cracking the safe at Slades.

They took only cash, leaving a large sum in cheques undamaged.

The safe was rolled on its wheels from a front office to a banana-ripening room in the rear of the premises.

The burglars then tipped it on its side and hacked it open. Police believe they used a mattock.

Office manager David Hunter noticed the safe missing when he arrived to do some office work shortly after 11 a.m. Sunday. It was later discovered in the rear room.

The safecrackers gained entrance to the premises through a ventilation door in the basement at the south corner of the building.

USED HATCHET

The door handle and lock on the door were cut out, probably by a hatchet.

In the Shepherd's Dairy theft an office was ransacked and $139 stolen from a filing cabinet drawer.

Locked drawers were smashed, cabinets were upset and papers scattered about the floor.

A pane of glass was removed

BCE Earnings Hit Record $6.9 Million

Earnings by the B.C. Power Corporation, parent company of B.C. Electric, soared to a record high of $6,956,095 in 1955, president Dal Grauer stated in his annual report today.

This represents $2.05 per share on the 3,401,470 common shares outstanding at the year-end. It compares with 1954 earnings of $5,127,357 or $1.62 per share on the 3,168,380 common shares outstanding at the end of that year.

On the basis of public regulations under the Public Utilities Act, the 1955 operating income represents a return on investment of 5.8 per cent, compared with 5.5 per cent for 1954.

Allowed rate of return is 6.5 per cent.

Gross revenue from operations was $63,400,000, up 7.1 per cent from 1954, while operating expenses of $48,800,000 were 3.3 per cent higher than the year before.

Net income of the subsidiary B.C. Electric Co. Ltd. and its subsidiaries was $10,264,887, compared with $7,838,349 the previous year.

After deducting operating expenses of the B.C. Power Corporation, net income was $10,289,445.

The 1956 construction program calls for expenditure at $75,000,000, an all-time high. Public financing for this program has been largely completed.

COPPER RUSH BOGS TORONTO STOCK TICKERS

TORONTO (CP)—History was made at the Toronto Stock Exchange today in a frenzied rush to buy copper shares.

The ticker tape ran as much as 45 minutes behind. The rapid-fire pace, which taxed the trading floor to the limit, was the most active in the exchange's 104-year history.

Stockbrokers said rumors that the price of copper would increase two cents a pound to 48 cents were behind the record buying sessions.

Gains of up to 25 cents were recorded for stocks of companies with properties in copper-producing areas or areas which show potential.

TO ACT INDEPENDENTLY

The Arab Big Three's Cairo communique—signed by Egypt's Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, Syria's President Shukri Kuwaty and Saudi Arabia's King Saud, after six days of conferences—hinted the trio intends to act independently of the nine-nation Arab League.

The communique referred to an "all inclusive plan for co-ordination of Saudi Arabia, Syrian and Egyptian policy in policy, military, economic and cultural fields, aiming by such co-ordination at the mobilization of all forces and their direction towards the realization of the general good of the Arab Nation."

The communique said agreement was reached on dealings with states which allow their subjects to be recruited by Israeli armed forces; towards states supplying Israel with weapons; counteraction against pressure on Arabs exerted by foreign powers through the Baghdad pact; offer of aid and support to Jordan.

DR. GUY BENNETT MAKES HIS DEBUT

Times readers today are introduced to another new cartoon page character as Dr. Guy Bennett makes his debut.

The Dr. Bennett strip, appearing with the other cartoons on Page 25, deals in successive instalments with various medical and health problems of the day and the way they can be solved. Don't forget, too, for the youngsters the Easter "Story of Eggbert" begins today on Page 23.

Not Planning Election in 1956, But Premier Won't Rule It Out

Premier Bennett is going to keep his political opponents guessing on the possibility of a general election in B.C. this year.

"I am not saying definitely we won't have one," said the premier today. "I would never go for that."

"We are not planning one, but no government is going to commit itself 12 months in advance."

But he strongly indicated he doesn't want an election in 1956, and that unless a severe political storm blows up, there will not be one.

"We are thinking of getting our policies into effect," he said, "because we know that more and more people can see these things in operation."

"By their fruits ye shall know them," said the premier.

"I am not ruling out an election this year. I am not stating it positively, because this government is not afraid of cold water—our strength is increasing every day."

He said "people can differ

No-Hanging Vote Today In U.K. House

LONDON (Reuters)—Political agitation to stop the hanging of murderers enters a new phase here today when the House of Commons takes a new vote on whether the death sentence should be abolished or suspended.

The Commons on Feb. 16 defied the advice of the government and voted by a majority of 31 for the cessation of capital punishment.

But to the dismay of the abolitionists, the government refused to bring in an official bill to give legal effect to this decree. Instead, it decided to allow time for debate and a vote on a private member's bill, already before Parliament, which seeks to abolish or suspend the death penalty.

This bill was introduced some time ago by Sydney Silverman, a Labor member and lawyer.

ALLOW "FREE VOTE"

As in the previous hanging debate, the government will allow a "free vote"—which means members of all parties can decide as they like regardless of what their leaders wish them to do.

No pressure will be put on any member to vote any particular way. Present signs suggest about 30 Conservatives may join the Laborites to vote again to end hanging. If they do, the abolitionists are certain to get a majority.

Last time the House of Commons voted to end hanging, in 1953, the House of Lords subsequently rejected this decision.

The peers have power to delay, but not to quash such legislation, and if the MPs had been sufficiently determined, they could have forced their decision in due course. But the parliamentary battle coincided with a wave of violent crime in Britain, and the matter was dropped.

NEW HAMPSHIRE VOTE TUESDAY STARTS RACE

CONCORD, N.H. (CP) — This tiny mountain state leads off the U.S. presidential pre-election campaign Tuesday.

It is the first state to hold the election-year presidential primary in which delegates to the Republican and Democratic national nominating conventions are chosen.

The Republican race has little meaning since President Eisenhower is assured of the nomination. But New Hampshire Republicans may show how they feel about whether Richard Nixon should again be Eisenhower's running mate next November.

Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee is entered in the Democratic presidential preference primary. Adlai Stevenson, the current favorite to repeat for the Democratic nomination, is not.

Earl of Bessborough, Kept Ties With Canada

Canada's Governor-General From 1931-35 Dies at 75; Funeral Services Wednesday

ROWLAND'S CASTLE, Hampshire, Eng. (CP) — The Earl of Bessborough, 14th governor-general of Canada, died Saturday. He had been ill for three months and members of his family said death was due to ailments usually associated with old age.

Lord Bessborough, 75, was governor-general from 1931 to 1935.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday in the chapel of his home, Stansted Park. Memorial services will be held at Chichester, West Sussex, Friday, and at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, Monday.

The Times in its obituary notice says that "although he will not rank in Canadian history among the greater holders of that office, he discharged its duties with energy and conscientiousness."

A "certain stiffness of demeanor," largely caused by shyness, and a "quick temper handicapped him in his intercourse with Canadians," the paper adds, noting that his "insistence upon full rigors of ceremonial etiquette" contrasted unfavorably with the friendly, democratic ways of some previous governors-general.

REPRIMANDED MAYOR

The paper mentions a "particularly unfortunate" incident in 1934 when Lord Bessborough, finding nobody to receive him on a visit to Toronto, publicly reprimanded the mayor when he appeared late owing to an error.

"The incident led to his being made the target of more outspoken press criticism than any of his recent predecessors had incurred, and, since he had a high sense of his duty, he was deeply distressed by it."

During his tenure of office in Canada, Lord Bessborough promoted a revival of the national drama festival, inaugurated by Lord Grey. This later became a flourishing annual institution.

In his later years, Lord Bessborough retained his interest in Canada. He attended Dominion Day receptions at Canada House in London and was often seen at the head table at dinners of the Canada Club, which meets three or four times a year.

His varied business interests included chairmanship of Rio Tinto Co. Ltd., which has extensive interests in Canada through its subsidiary firm, Rio Tinto Canada Ltd., and Rio Canadian Exploration Ltd. At one time, he was director of 30 companies.

Lord Bessborough visited Canada last October to inspect Rio Tinto company holdings in the Elliot River, Ont., uranium field, and to check on extensive base metal exploration work being undertaken by the subsidiary firms.

Lord Bessborough's widow, the former Baronne Roberte de Neufville, said her husband had been "thrilled beyond all words at the tremendous development he had noted in the Canadian scene during his visit last fall."

"He always had the utmost confidence in the wonderful future of Canada and it gave him enormous pleasure to see that great future had materialized."

Lord Bessborough's son, Viscount Duncannon, 42, now becomes the new earl.

Third Party Looms Over Segregation

Democrats Faced With Party Split On Racial Dispute in Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several southern senators held open today the possibility of a third party movement if the Democratic national convention should commit the party firmly in favor of school integration.

Senator Strom Thurmond (Dem.-S.C.) who led the Democratic "states rights" party which captured four Dixie states in 1948, said he knows of no third party move at this time.

"But I have enlisted with the South Carolina Democratic party and if any dispute arises with the national party organization, I will be with the South Carolina Democratic party," he said.

Another southern senator predicted Dixie delegates will walk out of the convention if it endorses the use of force to bring about integration of the race in public schools.

DEPENDS ON PLATFORM

Senator Richard Russell (Dem.-Ga.) voiced the opinion that what happens in the way of any third party move "will depend on what happens at the convention, what kind of platform it writes and what candidate it nominates."

Southern legislators set forth their views on the integration question Sunday in a "manifesto" signed by 19 senators and 77 House of Representatives members from 11 states. All but two were Democrats. The 11 states have 22 senators and 105 representatives.

The statement pledged to exercise "all lawful means" to bring about a reversal of the 1954 decision by the Supreme Court outlawing segregated public schools. No specific courses of action were spelled out.

"ABUSE OF . . . POWER"

Senator Walter George (Dem.-Ga.) and Representative Howard W. Smith (Dem.-Va.) arranged to read the statement today in the Senate and House.

Among other things, it declared the Supreme Court's integration decision to be "a clear abuse of judicial power." It said the justices used "naked judicial power and substituted their personal political and social ideas for the established law of the land."

ALABAMA U. CRACKS DOWN ON STUDENTS

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — University of Alabama trustees today expelled one student, suspended three others and approved lesser punishment for 21 more in disciplinary action arising from student rioting against Autherine Lucy, the school's first Negro student.

Leonard Wilson, 20-year-old Selma, Ala., sophomore was expelled.

Miss Lucy was excluded from classes after rioting Feb. 6. She was expelled Feb. 29 after making unproved charges that university officials were in conspiracy with the mobs.

Wilson, who addressed student demonstrations the night of Feb. 3 and 4, was called from class today and told of his expulsion.

A statement from the trustee said Wilson was thrown out because of his part in student rioting and also because of "unwarranted and outrageous public attacks."

Dr. Oliver C. Carmichael, university president, and other school officials.

Wilson called for a general house-cleaning at the university in an address before the White Citizens Council rally in Birmingham last Tuesday.

U.K.-French Arms Plan Developed—Mollet

PARIS (Reuters) — Premier Guy Mollet announced today that "in a few days there will be a Franco-British disarmament plan."

He added that there was every reason to believe this joint plan would have the support of the United States.

Mollet was speaking at a luncheon of the Foreign Press Association less than four hours after his return from talks with the British prime minister.

Mollet said: "The welcome given me by Sir Anthony Eden was full of warm-heartedness and friendship. We talked in the fullest confidence."

Mollet explained that he and Eden had examined the disarmament plan prepared by Jules Moch, permanent French representative on the United Nations disarmament sub-committee.

As Mollet flew back to Paris today, a joint communique issued in London said the two leaders emphasized the need for making "progress with general and controlled disarmament."

RESUME TALKS

The sub-committee, comprising the United States, Canada, Britain, France and Russia, begins a new round of private talks in London next Monday in a further drive to break 10 years of East-West deadlock.

France has recently taken the stand that disarmament offers the best prospect of beginning to reach agreement with Russia.

Bulganin Cries 'Skol' To U.S. Drink

Ike's Martinis Well Received

MOSCOW (AP) — President Eisenhower and the martini cocktail were praised Sunday night as contributors to peace by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

At a reception in the Danish embassy during a round of toasts with visiting Danish Premier Hans C. Hansen, the Soviet premier remarked:

"President Eisenhower opened the martini road in Geneva. We sometimes drank with him to friendship and peace in the world. We drank martinis during intervals. We cannot forget these moments and we hope that it will always be like that."

The evening, sparked by the ebullient Danish premier, who returned to Moscow Sunday from a visit to Baku, rang with toasts, a Danish drinking song and good cheer.

At one point after a rousing toast to friendship, Hansen threw his glass over his shoulder in the traditional manner of breaking a drinking goblet after a toast.

It missed fire, however, and struck the shoulder of the London Daily Worker correspondent before shattering on the floor.

Premier Bulganin, not to be outdone, threw his glass overhead with true aim and it crashed against the wall.

Then the party got merrier, with the Danish drinking cry of "skol" ringing out, principally from Hansen.

Former Swiss Skier Perishes Under Avalanche Near Jasper

JASPER, Alta. (CP) — The Jasper national park warden's office said today that a skier killed Sunday when buried by an avalanche was in an out-of-bounds area.

The body of Charles Dupre, 29, who came to Canada five years ago from Switzerland, was found buried under 10 feet of hard-packed snow in Marmot basin, 10 miles from Jasper, four hours after the snowslide.

The warden's office said a ski patrol sets the out-of-bounds area.

Dupre was skiing with Mrs. Olive Grobet, who was 100 yards behind him, when the avalanche slid down the mountain. She gave this account:

"I heard a terrific roar and saw the snow billow up between Charles and me. He tried to ride it for awhile but was completely engulfed."

30 SEARCHERS OUT

A group of people around the chalet at the bottom of the slope saw the accident and rushed to the spot where Mrs. Grobet had last seen her companion. A snowmobile, sent to Jasper for help rounded up about 30 searchers. Using 12-foot steel probing poles, they combed the slope for more than 4½ hours after the accident.

Ski patrolman Tommy McCready finally touched one of Dupre's skis with his pole and the body was recovered shortly after.

Artificial respiration was applied for an hour without success and the body was brought here Sunday night.

The avalanche, possibly caused by mild weather and heavy snow, occurred in a secondary basin about 7,500 feet above sea level.

25 Chemainus Groups Meet To Talk Community-Wide Safety

CHEMAINUS — Representatives of 25 local organizations this week attended a meeting sponsored by MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., Chemainus division, to discuss a plan for a community-wide safety program.

F. W. Fearman, manager of Chemainus division, told the meeting that industry has had a high degree of success in reducing accidents through intensive safety campaigns. He said a similar program aimed at community safety would prove beneficial.

Don MacBean, accident prevention supervisor for MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., told of a safety program carried out by the community of Camas, Wash. Some 37 civic groups in Camas participate in a scheme called "Safety Unlimited," he said.

"One group teaches vacation safety, another inspects bicycles, and so on. After visiting Camas and seeing with my own eyes the tremendous results they have had from their safety program, I came away with the thought that here in B.C., where we do so little to protect our people, we could copy to advantage what the residents of Camas have done."

Police records here showed there were 18 traffic accidents with resultant injuries last year and 35 traffic accidents resulting in property damage. Dave McIvor, safety supervisor at Copper Canyon camp, told the meeting. Cost of property damage as a result of the accidents amounted to $23,046.

There were 28 fire calls last year. Property damage as a result of fires amounted to $21,650, he said.

"I think these figures bear out the need for some sort of an organized effort in this community to stamp out accidents," Mr. McIvor concluded.

Mr. Fearman outlined a proposal for a community-wide

A wild March storm ripped through central Ontario and northern Quebec Sunday, leaving a trail of fallen power lines, uprooted trees, crumpled roofs and snow-drifted roads.

The gale, with gusts of up to 75 miles an hour, swept northeast out of the mid-west states and today was shrieking toward the Atlantic. Weather officials in Toronto said it probably will pass north of the Maritimes.

Most damage was reported in Ontario.

Anti-SEATO Calls Greet Dulles

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—A dozen young Communists shrielled anti-SEATO slogans to greet State Secretary Dulles when he landed here today. But most of Indonesia's 80,000,000 people appeared indifferent to the U.S. diplomat's visit.

During his 24-hour stopover, Dulles planned to confer with President Soekarno. His program does not include a visit with premier-designate Ali Sastroamidjojo.

Sastroamidjojo, former ambassador to Washington, headed a pro-Communist government for two years until he was ousted last July. Soekarno called on him to form a new cabinet after last fall's first popular election in which the Communists gained considerable strength in Parliament.

'Little Cabbage' Joke Originated In Tory Paper PM's Son Reveals

TORONTO, Ont. (BUP)—A politician's first lesson should be not to make jokes, according to Jean-Paul St. Laurent, son of the prime minister.

St. Laurent, member of parliament for Temiscouata, told a Liberal meeting here Saturday night he made the mistake of "reading a joke made by someone else" during a by-election race—for membership in the House of Commons.

He said the joke was an article in Le Temps—a Union Nationale paper. St. Laurent said it was a prediction of what he would say during the campaign to have himself elected.

The mistake, he said, was his reading the article at several meetings as a joke.

"The words were then attributed to me, and when I didn't refute them I was judged guilty of originating them," he said.

St. Laurent referred to remarks attributed to him—including claims that he was his father's "grey eminence," his mother's "little cabbage," and the only Member of Parliament who could "interview the prime minister in his nightshirt."

St. Laurent said the remarks were "so absurd" he repeated them thinking it was "rather funny."

"You can imagine my surprise when the Conservatives started saying I was the author of these words," he said. "They conveniently forgot that I was reading them from their own party newspaper and that I had not said these words in the first place."

"They went a step further," St. Laurent said. "A Conservative back-bencher from Quebec (J. Wilfred Dufresne, Quebec West), later in the House of Commons repeated all these ridiculous things."

St. Laurent said he did not refute the statements in the House because he didn't want to have his first speech in the House deal with a purely personal controversy.

"But I notice that several newspapers have said that because I did not reply these things must have been true," he said. "That is not so."

40,000 Hail Pope At Basilica Rites

Snowstorm Mars Outdoor Ceremonies During Glittering Coronation Anniversary

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A glittering assemblage in St. Peter's paid homage Sunday to Pope Pius XIII on the official celebration of his 80th birthday and the 17th anniversary of his coronation as head of the Roman Catholic Church.

The sharp notes of trumpets heralded his entrance into St. Peter's Basilica, radiant in red damask and the blaze of 10,000 electric lights.

Shouts of "Viva il Papa" (long live the Pope) hailed the pontiff, dressed in gold embroidered white robes and wearing his beehive-shaped tiaracrown, as he was carried on the portable throne down the centre aisle.

Again and again during the slow procession, the Pope raised his hand in blessing. An estimated 40,000 people filled the big basilica. Among them were the special envoys of 51 heads of states.

HEAVY SNOW

Outside in St. Peter's Square an unusually heavy snowstorm fell throughout the morning. It forced elimination of the pontiff's blessing to the city and the world ("urbi et orbi") which he was to have given from the central loggia.

The pontifical procession was led by heads of religious orders, bishops, archbishops and 29 cardinals—the latter, robed in scarlet and wearing ermine capes over their shoulders. Among them was James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto.

The procession moved slowly to the great confessional altar and then to the far depth of the basilica where a throne was ready to receive the pontiff.

There, one by one, the cardinals approached him and made individual acts of obeisance, kneeling before him.

Then, with the Vatican's Sistine choir singing the Palestrina mass, white-bearded Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, French-born dean of the college of cardinals, led the Pope to the confessional altar.

At one point, the pontiff came to the altar and gave his blessing to all in the basilica, granting all plenary indulgence. This, according to Catholic belief, is pardon of the temporal punishment due for the commission of sin. The blessing and the indulgence were also extended to all Catholics who listened to the ceremony by radio or television.

Pope Pius was elected pontiff on March 2, 1939, his 63rd birthday. The anniversary of his coronation—10 days later on March 12—was celebrated Sunday because it was a Sunday. This also was the official ceremony marking his birthday.

Ottawa Policy Killing Merchant Fleet—Hees

VANCOUVER (CP)—George Hees, former president of the National Progressive Conservative Association, said Saturday a "do-nothing" policy by the federal government is destroying Canada's once-strong merchant marine.

Mr. Hees said lack of government-fostered shipping development has reduced Canadian-registered shipping to 15 dry-cargo, deep-sea vessels from 145 in the last 10 years.

He told a meeting of the Primrose Women's Conservative Club and Young Conservatives that the number of Canadian seamen has dropped to 500 from 5,000 and Canada, fourth maritime nation in the world during the Second World War, now is 21st.

Lack of Canadian-registered deep-sea vessels has increased shipping shortages of West Coast pulp, hurt foreign trade and will give benefits from the St. Lawrence Seaway to foreign nations, Mr. Hees said.

The government should adopt a policy of developing and maintaining a strong nucleus of at least 50 ocean-going ships for foreign trade and to protect the country's supply lines in the event of war.

WEBSTER 'DISGUSTED'

Provincial party leader Deane Finlayson told the annual meeting of the B.C. Young Conservative Association that the provincial government's lack of principle in conduct of public business was responsible for the resignation of CCF leader Arnold Webster.

Mr. Finlayson said: "There may be more than meets the eye, but in my opinion Mr. Webster's action represents the disgust of a decent citizen who would like to serve the public but can't stomach it the way the game is being played in Victoria today."

He said "political opportunists . . . have taken over the B.C. Social Credit party."

Forest Management Licences

IN THE LIGHT OF RECENT events in the Legislature a previous ruling by Chief Justice Sloan on the subject of forest management licences becomes exceedingly important.

It will be noted that the Chief Justice's statement does not touch the bel and slander suit launched by Mr. Sommers against Mr. Sturdy which, being sub judice, cannot be presently discussed. But it does explain in the clearest fashion the Chief Justice's attitude toward any possible impropriety in the issuance of forest management licences.

This ruling was made by the Chief Justice when counsel questioned a witness, on January 30 last, about a trip which Mr. Sommers made to the east some time ago. The witness, Mr. H. G. Munro, denied that his company had paid Mr. Sommers' expenses on this trip. At this point the Chief Justice interrupted the examination to make the following statement:

"Let's assume this: If a forest management licence is issued in the public interest, if all the factors, forestry-wise, socially and economic, are such that it is in the public interest that a licence should be issued, then it's no concern of this Commission whether somebody has improperly received monies for the issuance of that licence. All I'm concerned about are the facts concerning the issuance of the licence; is that licence itself, with all the surrounding aspects, forestry-wise, and weighing the economic and social values, improperly or properly issued in that sense? And if it is a properly issued licence in that sense then it is no concern of this Commission whether somebody improperly received money for its issuance. There are other places and other tribunals that have the power to deal with these things. "The other alternative to that is a licence may be issued without any suggestion whatever of impropriety; such a licence can, however, be said to be improperly issued, forestry-wise, and considering the economic and social aspects that are involved, and that's the only aspect in which I am interested. . . .

"Because, I have said, it is beyond the competence of this Commission. If my Commission was wide enough, then I would naturally have to investigate this sort of allegation to the fullest extent. I made my ruling in the Sturdy application and have given my reasons for it. I have nothing further to add to what I said then. Just let it rest now at that."

It is evident from this statement that, so far as the Sloan Commission is concerned, existing forest management licences are to be judged entirely on their merits from the standpoint of sound forestry practice. No other factor will be considered by the Chief Justice. But, as he says, other factors such as allegations of impropriety, can be considered by "other tribunals."

At another point in the proceedings the Chief Justice told the counsel before him, Mr. R. M. Howard, that if he wished to press any suggestion of impropriety "you take the matter up with the attorney-general and not with me." But Mr. Howard specifically denied that he was suggesting anything improper.

The legal position of the long debate on forestry administration is thus clarified. Chief Justice Sloan is concerned solely with the economics and public policy of forestry management licences. The courts will consider, in a libel suit, certain allegations against Mr. Sommers. But the much broader field of legitimate inquiry opened up by Mr. Sommers' charges against unnamed timber interests, politicians and newspapers will not be pursued. Only a royal commission could pursue it and the Government has refused, so far, to set up such a commission. The public, we think, will regard these restricted arrangements as highly unsatisfactory.

The President's Successor

ALREADY, IN ITS FIRST stages, the American presidential campaign has revived a profound constitutional issue as old as the Republic. What, in short, happens if a sick president is unable to perform his duties? No answer to that question has ever been found.

It is by no means an academic question for the irrelevant debate of constitutionalists. Three times in American history a president has been incapacitated and no substitute for him has been found.

After President Garfield had been wounded by an assassin on July 21, 1881, he lingered, dying, until September 19 and his office was paralyzed. When President Wilson collapsed in 1919, in his gallant fight for the League of Nations, the United States lacked effective government for months. After his heart attack last September President Eisenhower, of course, was incapable of governing and, according to many competent observers, government suffered gravely as a result, especially in the field of foreign policy.

In none of these three cases were the duties of the presidency—the final acts of decision which only one can make under the American system—handed over to any other man.

The able statesmen who built the American Constitution at the Philadelphia Congress foresaw these dangers. They wrote into the Constitution a rather vague clause which provides that when a president is incapacitated his duties shall devolve upon the vice-president. But they set up no machinery by which the president's incapacity could be legally established.

Who is to decide when a president is truly incapacitated? Shall he make the decision himself? Shall it be made by the vice-president, or the cabinet, or the Congress or the Supreme Court? The Constitution is silent on these questions.

Over and over again the legislators of Congress have tried to devise an answer and have always failed. Various bills introduced into the Congress have provided that the vice-president may inform the Supreme Court that the president cannot perform his duties, that the Court may then declare the president incapacitated and hand his office over to the vice-president; or that the decision shall be left to the House of Representatives; or that the president's health shall be examined by a board of impartial physicians. But no legislation of this sort has been passed.

In discussing the future health of Mr. Eisenhower the Democrats have been accused of merely playing politics because they have no real issue of policy in the present campaign. No doubt plenty of politics will be played between now and November, but the subject of the President's health is a legitimate subject of public discussion and certainly will influence the voters.

Mr. Eisenhower, with his usual candor, has raised this question himself. That was the whole purpose of his recent fireside chat with the nation, perhaps the best speech he has ever made.

He has no wish to mislead the people about his physical condition. He says plainly that he must eliminate some of the usual distractions which complicate the life of any president, delegate some duties to subordinates and husband his energies for more important business.

He believes, however, on the advice of his doctors, that he is quite capable of sustaining the almost unimaginable burden of the presidency and it seems altogether probable that he will be given a second term.

At his age, however, and after a serious heart attack, the choice of a vice-president becomes a matter of the highest importance, since the vice-president, as the saying goes, is only a heart beat from the presidency.

Also, as many American constitutional authorities are saying, it is important that the Congress should clarify by law or constitutional amendment the process by which a president, temporarily incapacitated, may hand over his office to the vice-president and receive it back after his recovery.

These are grave problems for our neighbors to consider. Happily they do not arise under the British cabinet system where final responsibility is never centred in one man, as in the presidency, but is shared by a group of men, none of them indispensable.

More Deadly Than War

IN LAST WEEK'S ISSUE OF U.S. News and World Report are two tombstones carrying the comparative number of U.S. war dead and those killed in traffic accidents.

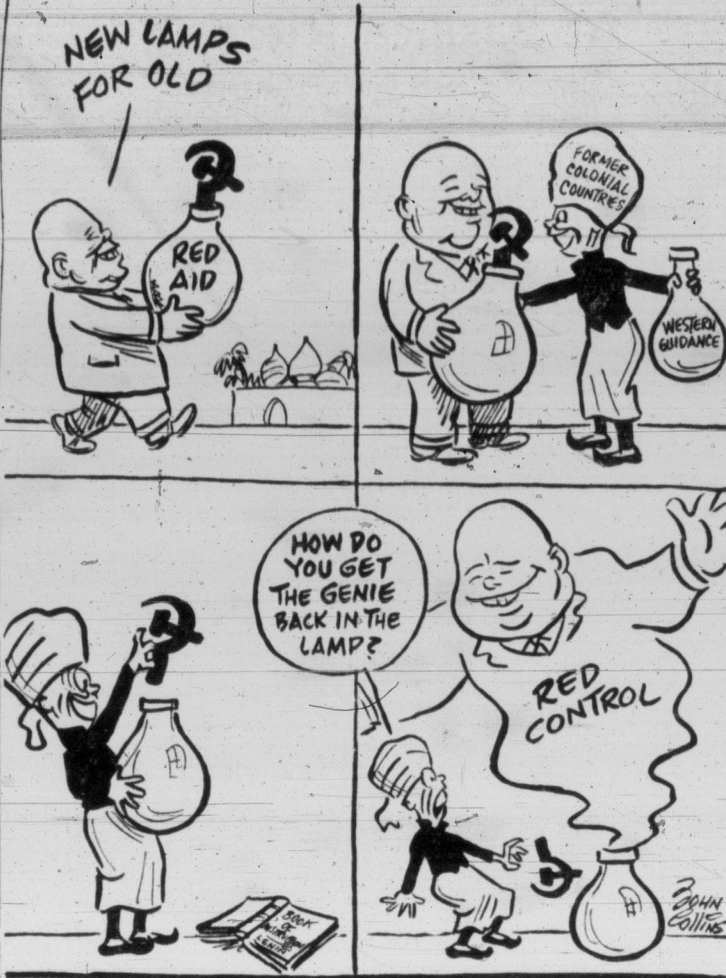

The respective totals show that 1,130,393 Americans died in all their country's wars from 1775 to 1955. During the period from 1900 to 1955—a period less than one third the former—1,149,414 Americans died on the highways.

These are United States figures. They do, however, bear relation to Canadian statistics. The total number of highway deaths in Canada on any given holiday usually equals or exceeds that in the United States on a per capita basis and more Canadians have been killed on the highway since the end of the Second World War than met death in its battles in Sicily, Italy, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Korea.

Many forces combine to cause wars and the responsibility for them is widely spread. On the highway, with few exceptions, only the driver is responsible. Must he continue to exact a toll higher than our foreign enemies in time of war?

An Eastern Folk Tale

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

LAST year there appeared a brand new edition of The Week-End Book, very much revised and enlarged. Many of us were brought up on the original Week-End Book (so spelt, complete with hyphen and capital E), which first came out in 1924 and was enlarged in 1928, at which time it first caught my eye.

At one time I knew a good deal of it by heart. One night in Toronto I was dining with my uncle, Dr. Alexander Primrose, who was the very distinguished Dean of Medicine there, and a great surgeon and anatomist as well. One of his guests was Dr. S. E. Whitnall, professor of anatomy at McGill from 1919 till 1934.

Dr. Whitnall quoted some amusing little verse or other, and I quoted another to cap it. . . . capping the stories or quotations of distinguished company was nothing to a brash young student like myself. . . . I suppose I should shudder now when I remember these things, so mind me to do it some time and I will do it.

Dr. Whitnall asked me where I got my little rhyme, and I said "Out of the Week-End Book," and he said that was very odd, and I asked why, and he said he had written part of the Week-End Book himself, the distinctive and learned medical section, and he thought he knew the rest of the book by heart, but he supposed his memory was beginning to come off the boil now. Perhaps what really happened was that he had a 1924 copy and I had a 1928 one.

Well, I had always taken it for granted that everyone appreciated Dr. Whitnall's part of that book as much as I did. And as much as I hoped Dr. Whitnall did, for there is anything I love it to see a writer pleased with his work, provided it pleases me too. (And if not, not.)

AND now I pick up an old copy of Saturday Night, the Feb. 18 issue, and what do I see? In an enthusiastic review of the brand new Week-End Book, Mr. Robertson Davies says "The section on First Aid has been purged of the quaintness which afflicted it in the early edition." The editor, Sir Francis Meynell (now about 65), seems to have lost some of the old zip, for he agrees with Mr. Davies and says in his preface that "the jokes of yesteryear are not the jokes of today and (the sections on) First Aid and The Law have now less whimsy and more utility." So he has got Miss Cynthia Meynell (no medical degree mentioned) to replace Dr. Whitnall, and if this replacement itself is not a piece of whimsy I'd like to know what is.

It is easy to damn a thing by calling it "whimsy" and "out-of-date." Me, I didn't mind Dr. Whitnall's style in my youth and I don't mind it now. It is readable enough and very reassuring. A doctor should sound friendly, learned, pleasant, sympathetic, vastly read and experienced, tolerant, far-seeing, and with plenty of time to spare. (To mention a few items.) A first-aid is all too apt to sound frightening, brisk, impersonal, shallow, humorless, bossy, knowledgeable, and (sometimes) at a loss.

THERE'S no room here for more than a very small example or two. Here's a short one at random from Dr. Whitnall: "To Remedy the Toothache: When there is no Doctor or Dentist, but only an Apothecary, remedy the Toothache and the Gumboil by applying cotton wool saturated in Tr. Opil, Chloroform, Sp. Camph., and Tr. Pyrethri, of each one drachm, which is a potent analgesic. But if there be a Dentist or a Doctor, show this like poison (which it is), and go at once to the one or the other; for only in them is Salvation." Now let us see what Miss Meynell says: "Toothache. Whiskey (spelt with an E) or brandy held in the mouth may alleviate the pain." That's all. Not much utility there.

Dr. Whitnall gives some interesting information on precautions before what he calls hobnailing the liver and Miss Meynell calls party-drinking, and how to deal with emergencies during the festivities, and what to do next morning. Miss Meynell deals only with the pre-party tactics. And when she suggests a glass of milk before a party, she forgets to make it clear that skimmed milk won't do much good; what is needed is fat. Indeed, some bohemians eat a lump of butter before a party, rather than drinking their butterfat as cream. (I speak only as an observer, not as either a great scientist or a great reveler.)

AT THE end of his section, Dr. Whitnall says "Should you ail anything else, then 'all the Nation are already Physicians' . . . every one you meet, whether man or woman, will prescribe you a medicine for it." But take their medicine, like ours, with circumspection, Reader. . . . And I have suddenly realized that his style and mood serve a double purpose. Not only do they keep you from being too frightened at the pre-party first-aid manual, avoid, but they keep you from being too confident in the necessary over-simplification of such a work, and in this they must be useful and unique.

Blast, I haven't left myself room for the section of songs. It now contains a great many rounds and not so many ordinary songs, and Mr. Davies thinks this a great improvement. To leave out such things as "The Fire Ship" and "Greensleeves" and "Mister McKinley" and "done so wrong" (this was President McKinley) to make room for more rounds. . . . this would not soothe the ghost of the late John Goss, who may have been a Communist but who got together for the original Week-End Book a good mixture of songs, from Class Enemies and Proles alike. (Question: Why did the proles sing more in the bad old days?)

A Sense of Balance

BY A. D. P. HEENEY Canadian Ambassador to the United States

In an address to the Montreal Board of Trade Young Men's section

THE pace of Canada's material development, these past twenty-five years, has been so rapid and the change in our fortunes so marked, that I sometimes wonder whether we ourselves are managing to keep up with it. Are we Canadians adjusting ourselves as we should to the quite new situation of our country? Does our attitude toward other nations and other peoples always display the maturity, the responsibility and sense of proportion befitting our increased wealth and stature? For whether we like it or not, we Canadians have reached man's estate and, in our international demeanor, can no longer permit ourselves the irresponsibilities of youth. We are, no longer in the wings; we are on the stage, in the spotlight with the other players.

Nowhere is this change more remarkable, nor its consequences more significant, than in our relations with the United States. . . .

You will all remember how Americans used to be blamed for failing to shoulder their just share of international responsibility. . . .

IRRELEVANT CRITICISM

Whatever validity there may have been in such criticisms twenty-five years ago, surely they have little relevance today. Consider the change wrought in less than a generation. The United States has had thrust upon her a degree of world responsibility that is probably without parallel in history. The manner in which the American people have accepted this heavy load should command the respect and gratitude of free men everywhere—and perhaps of Canadians most of all. For it is particularly fitting—and somewhat sobering too—for Canadians to remind themselves of what the free world owes to their giant neighbour.

It was the vast material and manpower resources of the United States, poured unstintingly into the great hopper of the Alliance, that finally turned back the forces of aggression in World War II. It was American money and goods—over $30 billions worth, through the Marshall Plan—that made possible the quick and impressive recovery of the shattered economies of Western Europe. Without American support and enthusiasm the United Nations—with all its weaknesses, the embodiment of mankind's best hopes for peace—might never have been born. It was the decision of the United States to retain substantial forces in Europe after the fighting was over that choked off the threat of new aggression. It was the United States participation in NATO that helped to consolidate the resources of the Atlantic Community into the main bulwark of peace in Europe. It was the United States, with the moral backing and material support of other U.N. members, that bore the brunt in checking Communist aggression in the Far East. And now, throughout most of the free world, the United States is powerfully committed and American forces and influence are deployed for the defence of freedom around the globe. . . .

RELEASING GOLD

United States imports have quadrupled since before the war and, although their merchandise exports are higher than their imports, it will come as a surprise to some that the total of U.S. payments, including economic aid, has been of such magnitude that, during the last few years, the rest of the world has been adding to its gold and dollar assets at a rate of over $1½ billion a year. . . .

Familiar as we are, in most ways, with our friends across the border, I think that, sometimes, we Canadians do not take fully into account the radical changes over this period in both our countries. (Incidentally, the same can be said of certain American attitudes about Canada.) For it is so very easy in one's thinking to fall back into outmoded patterns. The self-centred, self-satisfied, aggressive Uncle Sam is a familiar figure in Canadian history. And a critical, even hostile attitude toward things American finds many echoes in earlier epochs of our Canadian story.

OUTMODED ATTITUDES

But the inclinations and prejudices of former days have little relationship to present realities; nor should we allow them to determine our current opinions or behavior. We have lived to see the firm establishment in our northern half of this continent of a strong and sovereign Canada, taking her own independent place among the nations of the world. We have lived to see our great neighbor's vast power and influence deployed through the world at a time when the foundations of freedom were everywhere threatened. Let us, therefore, give full weight and recognition to these great changes and, in our relations with these people, eschew all pettiness and suspicion, all ill-considered and facile criticism and deal with our differences in an adult, responsible manner. To do otherwise is unworthy of our own station—and, incidentally, plays directly into the hands of those who would divide us.

All this is not to say that the policies of the United States and the actions of Americans should be immune from Canadian criticism and even attack. That would not be possible, even if it were desirable—which it is not. In the conduct of our relations with one another the process of responsible public discussion and free criticism is as vital as it is in our own domestic affairs.

Nor do I intend to convey the impression that there are no differences between Canada and the United States—no irritating and at times frustrating administrative tangles for example—no divergencies of viewpoint and policy, no conflicts of national interest. Of course there are, and I spend a good deal of my time and effort, as do my colleagues at your Embassy in Washington, in trying to deal with just such problems. There are, and probably always will be some cracks in the structure of our partnership. But in no sense do they threaten the essential strength of the edifice. And I would not have them papered over.

NO MEEK CONSENT

No, my plea is neither for embarrassed silence nor meek consent, but rather for a sense of proportion and responsible gravity in our attitude toward the United States. If we are shocked by some proposals in Congress, some action by the Administration which, for example, may threaten our commerce in some particular, let us by all means complain and protest and do everything in our power to dissuade U. S. authorities from such courses.

But let us at the same time remember that twenty-five years ago the Smoot-Hawley Act established the highest tariff rates in history—and that we have come a long way since then. If we are puzzled and worried over policies of the United States in the Far East or elsewhere, let us by all means make our own position clear and do all that we can, alone and with our other allies, to bring the Americans to our point of view. But at the same time let us not forget that it is the armed force and authority of the United States that constitute the principal bastion and support of the free world and the major deterrent to aggression.

Looking Ahead at Parks

(New York Times)

IN INCREASING the Federal appropriation for the National Park Service even more than President Eisenhower had asked, the House of Representatives has given a good indication of the high status the National Park System holds in the eyes of the American people.

Early in February the Administration had submitted a revised request for the coming fiscal year amounting to $66.2 millions, more than $20 millions greater than the sum granted for the current year. But the Appropriations Committee raised the final figure almost to $68 millions, and its action has already been approved by the House. This is a good augury for the next decade, when the financial requirements of the national parks will reach unprecedented heights. A ten-year plan entitled "Mission 66," recently announced by Secretary of the Interior McKay on behalf of the National Park Service, makes clear the pressing needs of the park system. It makes equally clear that the only sensible way to approach the gigantic problem now faced by the parks is to set out a well-ordered, comprehensive program designed to meet these needs on a long-term basis.

The brutal fact is that the national parks of the United States are in dire danger of being loved to death, destroyed by the American people in their desire to see them, to travel through them, to camp out in them, to walk and ride over them. Present facilities are geared to handle about half the number of present visitors. If we are going to continue to have national parks that are worthwhile, and, equally important, that are to be adequately used by the people while being preserved and maintained for future generations, we have to embark on a large-scale protective and constructive program of the type outlined by Mission 66.

The intention is not, and it must never be, to "build up" the parks with resort facilities or artificial entertainment devices. Such an idea would be ruinous, and entirely foreign to the purpose of the parks, which is to preserve unimpaired extraordinary scenic or natural wonders or places of great historic or archaeological interest, and yet to make them reasonably available for public use in a manner consistent with their preservation. The Park Service has been fortunate in having as its directors men cognizant of their great responsibility. It is up to the Administration and Congress to provide the material means to help them carry it out.

FASHION MODELS

Since I'm in the same field of fashion modeling in Montreal, I wonder if, through your paper, I could state a few facts about fashion modeling in Victoria. I saw the fashion show at the Hudson's Bay Co. department store.

Nona Damask is an exquisite model. But the rest of the models should have more training. They walk very unnaturally, too heavy. Seems like the models know their one-way walk, like wrestlers know their one-way grip on TV.

For instance, one hasn't the proper ankles for modeling. So-called perfection in lady's legs call for these measurements: ankle 8½ inches, calf 12½ inches, thigh 19½ inches. Professional modeling requires proper measurements from head to foot. She should be able to model such wardrobe as Mr. J. Cavanagh's designs "Streak" look.

Recently, your paper picked its nominee for the best-dressed woman in Victoria.

Readers of this paper and myself, will agree that Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross from Government House is the best-dressed woman in this beautiful city of Victoria.

TWO WORLDS

I regard it as among the major blessings of a fortunate life that I have been given the opportunity, or it may be that I have been accorded the temperament, enabling me to make intimate friendships with people who belonged to my son's generation rather than to my own. In this manner one gets the best of both worlds. Our old friends and contemporaries are calm havens in which we can come to rest; but no loving person ought to want to remain in harbor all the time; it is our young friends who take us out to sea and sunshine, and there, in our crazy old-fashioned boat, we bob about, looking ridiculous perhaps, but at least absorbing pleasure, recapturing some sort of adventure, and breathing the ozone of fresh ideas and different minds. —Sir Harold Nicolson.

A Quiet Biography

THIS past week has been the queerest mixture of snow, sleet, hail, rain, flu, frogs and Beatrix Potter.

We'll skip the first five because I haven't the courage to discuss any of them. But the frogs are different. They have more faith in spring than I have. Daily, they're singing down the valley in the evenings. It's not a full chorus yet and they were a whole month late beginning, but they are singing. Silly little fools!

The Beatrix Potter part is her biography, written by Margaret Lane.

I read it in 1946 when it was first published. And now, I've had it again from the Bookmobile and enjoyed it just as much.

Like so many Victorians, the Beatrix Potter books were an integral part of my childhood, and of my children's. But I never knew anything about the author herself. Neither did anyone else, apparently. For few lives have been more jealously hidden from the public eye than hers.

Margaret Lane's book was the first biography, and I think, is still the only one.

She writes with skill and sympathy of Beatrix Potter's sheltered, lonely childhood in London with very stuffy, auercatic parents. She tells how the first few books came to be written, and how Beatrix Potter bought a farm in her loved Lake District, and how, when she was nearly 50, she married William Heelis, and deliberately put Beatrix Potter and the writing behind her. From that time on, she was strictly a farmer whose advice on sheep-raising was listened to with great respect.

The contrast between the shy, diffident young Beatrix Potter and the shrewd, outspoken Mrs. Heelis is astonishing. They're like two different people.

Her great love of animals and the countryside, however, remained with her all her life and was probably one of the reasons why she worked so diligently for the National Trust and for the preservation of Lake District land for posterity.

There's a charming description of her in her 70s—rosy-cheeked and very much alive. There are excerpts from her wartime letters. And, of these, I like best the sentence, "I am kept up by a strong curiosity to see what happens next." (I think that's lovely. Those are the people who really do survive!)

Almost her last act in December, 1943, was to write a faint message to an old friend and shepherd who had come to her every lambing season for 16 years:

"Dear Jo Moscop—Still some strength in me. I write a line to shake you by the hand. Our friendship has been entirely pleasant."

It's a quiet book about a quiet woman. But, in these over-excited times, I find such reading reassuring. And I am sure that there are many people in Victoria who would love it just as much as I do.

And after this, I promise I won't mention B.P. again because I seem to have done so several times in the last six months. (I don't want to get labelled as "That woman who's simply mad on Beatrix Potter, my dear.")

But this biography, it seems to me, is a "must" for anyone who has ever loved a Beatrix Potter book.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Allergy in Infants and Children

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

In a recent number of Modern Medicine, Dr. Norman C. Clein, of Seattle, noted that allergic troubles are common in infants and children. The manifestation usually seen is a rash on the face or perhaps body. The so-called eczema. With this there is likely to be vomiting, intestinal colic, gas, diarrhea, constipation, asthma or a non-seasonal hay-fever.

Probably the commonest of trouble in infants is cow's milk. If only mothers would nurse their infants as the Good Lord intended them to do they could save their infants from much distress and sometimes a lifetime of suffering from allergic disease.

Dr. Clein went over the records of 216 infants suffering from cow's milk allergy and found 43 per cent had eczema; 38 per cent had spasms of the outlet of the stomach, with vomiting; 31 per cent had severe colic; 23 per cent had diarrhea; 19 per cent were constantly uncomfortable and fretful; 17 per cent were coughing, wheezing, choking and gagging; 13 per cent seemed always to have a cold in the nose; 6 per cent had an obstinate constipation; 7 per cent had asthma, and 3 per cent had enough sense to refuse to take the milk that was causing all their misery. There were 4 children who became toxic, apathetic and seriously ill.

Although 1 in 15 babies becomes allergic to cow's milk, today the fad is to put every infant on the bottle. One can hardly imagine any procedure more illogical.

That this allergy, begun in infancy, lasts into adult life was shown when Dr. Hinshaw and I found that 1 in 4 of 500 patients who came, one after the other, into our offices were allergic to cow's milk.

Most physicians on seeing an uncomfortable, unhappy, fretful, gassy and colicky baby will be inclined quickly to take him off of cow's milk to see what will happen. Usually, within 24 hours, the child will stop crying and will begin to look and act like a happy, well baby. As Dr. Clein says, one of the remarkable things in medicine is that many of us physicians, being able to eat anything with comfort, have never become interested in food allergy. Many have even been hostile to the idea.

Dr. Clein says that the allergic child with an uncomfortable nose will often keep picking at it or rubbing his finger up and down against the tip. After every "cold" the child may wheeze for a time. He may feel tired and without pep, and he may have a headache. Food allergy commonly depresses and dulls the brain.

Years ago my friend, Dr. Clifford Sweet, an able pediatrician of Oakland, California, on hearing of my own "dull Monday," due to eating chicken (to which I am allergic) on Sunday, soon gathered together into a "Dumb Monday Club" a group of children who became dull after eating on Sunday some common allergy-producing food such as chicken, pork, chocolate, nuts, or egg-white, as in angel-food cake. In the worst cases the child, on Monday, was too dull to go to school.

Allergic children can run a slight fever, and their stuffy nose can bring poor hearing. The chronic irritation of the nose can make an allergic child more than usually subject to bad colds and other respiratory infections. Before I knew about my food allergies I had 4 bad colds a year; now I rarely have one.

Dr. Clein says that if we physicians would only recognize allergies in children we would not take out so many tonsils and adenoids. He said that a family-history-of-allergy can be found in some 90 per cent of cases of large tonsils. Allergic parents should be particularly on the watch for allergy in their children.

In my experience skin tests are seldom of much value in revealing allergy to food; they work better in revealing sensitiveness to dusts, pollens, and animal emanations. If a grandchild of mine were suffering from what looked like a constant allergic misery I would have him eat and drink for a day or two nothing but (and I mean nothing but) lamb (broiled) with rice (cooked in water and served with only butter and sugar) and a canned pear for dessert. If, on this diet, the child were immediately to become bright and happy I would begin adding a new food each day, letting the mother keep notes as to which caused trouble and which did not. In this way we would soon know what the child could and could not eat.

If the child had a bad spell only once a week or so I would have the mother list the unusual foods eaten just before the distress came. After 3 or 4 or 5 spells it would be apparent that one special food was always eaten before distress came. Then, this food would be eliminated. Foods that should always be suspected are cow's milk, eggs, pork, chocolate, citrus fruits, nuts, spices and shell-fish.

SYNOPSIS—It has been milder over B.C. through the night than it was Saturday night as cloud from a Pacific disturbance moved across the skies. Snow has been falling quite generally in the northern interior and on the north coast a mixture of snow and rain has occurred. The southern areas of the province have had no precipitation from the disturbance and it is unlikely that any appreciable amount will fall today. Some clearing is expected Tuesday as the system proceeds eastward though a new disturbance will bring more rain to the north coast again late Tuesday.

WASHINGTON TO ELECT TRUSTEES

No More Appointments To State School Boards

OLYMPIA (AP)—Hundreds of candidates for city, town and school offices will test their popularity with the public Tuesday at widespread local election throughout the state.

Ninety mayors will be elected. Secretary of State Earl Coe said. Other officials and special proposals will be decided upon at elections in 28 cities, 177 towns and more than 500 school districts.

Voters in every area of the state will have an opportunity to cast ballots, if for no other reason than to elect a county school board. For the first time since county boards of education were established half a century ago, Washington voters will elect the members of the boards this year.

Home gardeners, here is a public park, the viewer travels through estates, formal gardens, knot gardens, suburban gardens, to the tiny cottage gardens. The fields of Russell lupins are magnificent.

The second English film is taken in the equally famous Kew Gardens, and shows exotic and indigenous plants.

"Garden Rendezvous" features Cecil Solly as narrator. The film, taken in gardens and parks of Victoria and Vancouver, shows the gardener how to design a garden from the features seen in other gardens.

Good gardening and planting hints are included, also pools, patios, window boxes, rockeries, and plants to use.

Two English films are included, both of which have received only one previous showing in Victoria. Starting at the famous Hampton Court, now a

Inco Metals at Work in Canada

Modern telephone cables are made up of many insulated copper wires. These cables can handle several thousand telephone calls simultaneously. Copper for nearly 75% of our telephone cables is mined, milled, smelted and refined by Inco right here in Canada. Then it goes to other Canadian companies for the manufacture of wire and cable. This cable is sold to telephone companies for installation in underground systems, like the one shown here, or in overhead telephone lines. All these operations make jobs for Canadian workmen.

Cables like this, made from INCO COPPER, handle thousands of telephone calls at once!

... and help provide jobs for Canadians

First, the ore from Inco's mines near Sudbury, Ontario, is processed in the Inco mill, the Inco smelter and the Inco copper refinery. It helps make jobs for about 18,000 Inco employees.

Next, the refined copper is sold to Canadian companies that manufacture copper wire and cable. There, Inco copper helps provide jobs for several thousand more employees.

Then, the cable goes to Canadian telephone companies where it helps make jobs for many thousands more Canadians.

Inco produces over 250,000,000 pounds of copper a year. And more than half of this copper goes to Canadian industries. Almost 75% of the telephone lines in Canada are made from Inco copper. From the ore to the finished cable, this Inco copper stays in Canada and helps provide employment for Canadians.

MODERN MEDICAL SCIENCE AGREES

Tea's Fast-Working 'Pick-Up', Hard to Explain, But No Illusion

Chinese legend has it that tea was discovered accidentally in 2737 B.C. by the Chinese Emperor-Philosopher Shen Nung. Leaves from a wild bush fell into the Emperor's pot of boiling drinking-water. He noticed a delightful aroma, drank of the infusion and found that it "gladdens and cheers the heart."

The legend stresses the mysterious, exhilarating quality of tea. Strangely, the sensations of "pick-up" followed by relaxation experienced by anyone drinking properly-made tea are still not fully understood by the medical world.

Perhaps the magic of tea will always remain a mystery, for tea is a natural, unique and inimitable product.

The lift tea gives may be hard to pin down, but psychologists have confirmed that it is certainly no illusion. Tests described by Dr. Alfred H. Lawton, Medical Research Adviser, U.S. Air Force, have shown that tea-drinking results in increased speed and clearness of thought, more rapid association of ideas, and increased capacity for prolonged mental and physical effort. Although tea is the most widely used beverage in the world, except water, scientists have only recently begun to study it intensively. In the past, physicians sometimes denied tea to patients with gout, high blood-pressure, peptic ulcer, heart ailments and other conditions.

This has changed. The modern medical attitude is reflected in the Mayo Clinic diet manual, which allows tea in virtually all medical conditions.

The popular idea that tea settles the stomach has recently been scientifically proved by physicians at the Jefferson Hospital in Philadelphia. They found that tea increases the tone of stomach muscles, makes them work more efficiently and thus aids digestion and relieves discomfort experienced after eating.

Grandma's old remedy for an upset stomach—"a nice cup of tea"—is another of those recurrent examples of folk lore that turn out to be well-founded.

By the time Lu-Yu in 780 A.D., was telling the Chinese in the first book on tea the right way to make the beverage—biskily boiling the water then, as now, was the secret—the beverage was long established in the Orient.

Lu-Yu advised that when the water resembled crystal beads rolling in a fountain it was time to pour it over the tea and went on to say: "when feeling hot, thirsty, depressed, suffering from headache, eye-ache, fatigue of the four limbs or pains in the joints, one should drink tea only, four or five times."

Tea is not, in fact, a "cure-all" and the best reason for drinking tea is because you like it. But a cup of tea does ease some kinds of headaches, probably by decreasing tension of the arteries within the skull.

Tea can be drunk freely by patients on low salt diets, for tea contains no sodium. It does contain small amounts of B vitamins, riboflavin, niacin and pantothenic acid. Tea is also quite rich in fluorine, an element concerned with sound decay-resisting tooth structure.

Dr. Henry J. L. Marriott, Head of the Division of Physical Diagnosis, University of Maryland School of Medicine, points out that tea is recommended in the diet for both healthy and sick children.

The nervous tension, anxiety and chronic tiredness that are so common in our civilization often result in part from over-activity of the higher nerve centres of the brain. Dr. Richard L. Jenkins, Chief of the Psychiatry and Neurology Service of the U.S. Veterans Administration, feels that tea is an aid to relaxation in these cases.

And so the beverage which, for thousands of years, has cheered and comforted mankind is fully justified by modern medical science.

TEA FOR CANADA WEEK TOASTS POPULAR DRINK

Today is the start of "Tea for Canada Week," being marked by special displays in groceries from coast to coast.

From 1716, when the first shipment of tea reached this country, right up to the present day, tea has taken its place on Canadian tables with ever-increasing popularity.

And small wonder. Next to water, tea is the most popular beverage in the world.

Hockey Players Drink Tea Between Periods

"Tea is by far the most effective fatigue recovery aid for athletes," Canadian Sports College founder-coach Lloyd Percival said recently.

According to Percival, research and testing carried out by Sports College indicates that tea not only provides a means of sustaining energy and alertness during activity, but also stimulates before the effort and helps promote quick recovery afterwards.

"Tea," he said, "is unique in its action, since it soothes and cheers as well as stimulates, is easy to digest and does not have any unpleasant rebound of any kind."

Last year he developed a special fatigue recovery formula based on tea.

Five bags of tea to the pint of water. Add the juice of lemons or oranges to taste—at least 3-4 to the pint of tea. Sweeten to taste with honey. Note: These are the proportions from which you can make as large a quantity as desired.

The tea should be brewed for five minutes and boiling water must be used.

The mixture can be kept in thermos bottles and served hot or can be kept in bottles and served cool. It is suggested that 14 ounces is the ideal portion to serve at one time.

In 1666 the retail price of tea in London, England, was £2-18-4 per pound. (Even at today's rate of exchange that would be approximately $8.23 per pound! At that time this represented about six weeks pay for the average man. No wonder they smuggled tea in those days!)

The important parts of the tea plant are the two leaves and a bud at the top. From these, the tea you drink is made. If allowed to grow unchecked, the tea plant produces flowers that are white and fragrant and a smooth, brownish-green "fruit" which contains the dark brown seed. The tea plant is an evergreen.

Tea was first brewed 4,693 years ago by Chinese Emperor Shen-Nung—a most learned man, for his time—when tea leaves fell from a tea bush into his pot of boiling drinking water. The emperor, often called the "Divine Healer," was perhaps the first man in history who believed in boiling water before drinking it to "make it healthy." Since then, the whole world has confirmed his first report on the exhilarating effects of a hearty cup of tea.

The tea plant grows best in a moist, tropical climate. Some of the best teas are grown at altitudes of 7,000 feet or more. These high altitude teas take longer to grow and thus are more expensive, as well as flavorful.

The first shipment of tea to Canada was sent to Governor James Knight, at York Factory on Hudson Bay in 1715. But bad weather made it necessary to turn the ship back and the tea didn't reach Canada till the following year.

Athletes of all kinds appreciate the refreshing lift that a cup of tea gives. Professional hockey teams, like the Detroit Red Wings, say drinking tea between periods both refreshes and renews energy.

English Smugglers Made Fortune on Tea

Smuggling diamonds from Amsterdam, cigars from the United States, or merely trying to slip a trinket through customs, can be expensive or lucrative depending on the smuggler's ability to remain undetected!

Chances of "getting away with it" in these days are remote however, so that smuggling on a grand scale is out of fashion.

Not so very long ago smuggling was a respected and extremely profitable operation. Who today, for example, would think of smuggling a few ounces of tea at the risk of being caught and hanged? And yet, there was a time when heavily taxed tea, which had become very popular in England, was the favorite stock in trade of English smugglers.

From all around the southern coasts of England, but particularly from the beautiful, wild rocky shores of Cornwall, small English boats would sneak out after dark to rendezvous with Dutch sailing boats lying offshore.

FINE ART

The smugglers would return to hundreds of tiny bays and coves with cases of tea to be stored in well-hidden caves. Tea smuggling was brought to a fine art, for the caves were cleverly ventilated to keep the tea from spoiling. Underground passages and tunnels led from the caves to old, little-used roads and paths, and along these paths tea, as well as tobacco, brandy and silk, was carried all over the country on the backs of sturdy ponies and in small carts.

In fact, so many agricultural workers were using their carts and their time hauling smuggled tea across the country that crops were neglected! Well they might be, for the return from farming was trifling compared to the financial results of a successful smuggling trip.

Smuggled tea reached the homes of both the humble and the rich. It has been recorded that even such a righteous man as Parson Woodforde bought tea from a smuggler much as we do from a grocer. An entry in his diary reads "Andrews, the smuggler, brought me this night about 11 o'clock a bag of Hyson tea, six pounds weight. He frightened us a little by whistling under the parlor window just as we were going to bed. I gave him some Geneva and paid him for the tea at 10 shillings and sixpence per pound." The government of the day was almost powerless. In spite of their numbers, the law enforcement officers were hindered by every man, woman and child along the coast who all helped the smugglers on every possible occasion.

Bert Thomas Sits in 'Arctic' Tub To Provide Data for Scientists

TACOMA (AP)—Bert Thomas, Tacoma's famed long-distance swimmer, will dunk himself in the frigid waters off Fort Defiance Monday afternoon to provide scientific data on human endurance.

His metabolism will be checked before and after a vigorous one-hour swim, by a team of top scientists from the physiology and biophysics department of the University of Washington School of Medicine.

It will be the third and final test in a series begun last week at the university. The tests parallel those made on English Channel swimmers by Dr. O. G. Edholm, physiologist for the National Institute of Medical Research, London, England.

Tests to date indicate the 275-pound conqueror of the Strait of Juan de Fuca possesses an almost super-human metabolism. They were conducted in an "Arctic" tub of water at the university, with the water temperature being reduced slowly from 86 degrees Fahrenheit to about 60.

After one-half hour of sitting in 60-degree water, Thomas still registered a normal 98.6 degrees body temperature.

The tests show that Thomas has the muscle strength of three or four men; his lung capacity (36-inch chest expanded) is roughly equal to two normal men; and his body and muscle insulation is such that he can endure cold water that ordinary men would find unbearable.

Dr. Loren D. Carlson, head of the scientific team, said the scientists underwent the same tests as Thomas, "but there was just no comparison" between what the scientists could stand and what Thomas endured without difficulty.

But most astonishing is Thomas' apparent ability to control his heart beat and body temperature at will.

At one point in the test the scientists dropped the water temperature by three degrees.

"Then I just turned up my 'furnace'—which you might call mind over matter—and upped my body temperature by one degree," Thomas said.

Dr. Arnold Hsieh, who is visiting the U. of W. from the physiology department of the University of Hong Kong, is assisting with the tests. A professor from Alaska also is recording data on Thomas.

VICTORIA'S BUSIEST DEALER

Has a New Owner

AFTER 28 YEARS

R. B. WILSON

Has sold his interests in the automobile dealership to Newell Morrison.

In 1928 Mr. Wilson, with four employees, founded Wilson Motors Ltd., the business that has grown to become the Island's largest Automobile Dealer, with a staff of 125 experts in sales and service. For five years a member of the Canadian General Motors Dealers' Council, he has won Dominion-wide recognition in the automotive field, serving as past president of the B.C. Automobile Dealers' Association, and a director representing B.C. of the Federation of Automobile Associations of Canada. Today he hands over to Mr. Morrison control of the business he has built, one of the finest organizations of its kind in Canada.

Meet the New President

N. R. MORRISON

Today, after successful years as G.M. Dealer in Duncan, specializing in Chevrolet, Oldsmobile and Chevrolet Trucks, Mr. Morrison returns to Victoria to assume control of the firm with which he formerly worked and trained. The steady development of the Duncan Dealership has well fitted him for his new and greater task. He announces a firm policy of "No Change" throughout the organization he now controls... the same staff... the same ethical standards... the same dependable service that has built Wilson Motors over a period of more than a quarter of a century.

BUT — the STAFF — the PRODUCTS — the DEPENDABLE SERVICE — REMAIN THE SAME....

YES—EVERYTHING THE SAME BUT THE NAME!

Victoria's Busiest Dealer has a new owner, an experienced General Motors Dealer, returning to the firm that launched his career, a man thoroughly familiar with the policies and products of Wilson Motors, a firm that has sold in excess of 23,000 automobiles in the past 28 years. Mr. Morrison steps in at a great moment in the history of Vancouver Island's Largest Dealer.

NEW DISPLAY FACILITIES...

A greatly enlarged and modernized showroom allows the simultaneous display of 14 new automobiles while a new Outdoor New Car Sales Market has covered space for the display of 35 completely-serviced, ready-to-roll new cars for 15-minute delivery... truly the most modern merchandising methods in North America.

THE GREATEST G-M PRODUCTS EVER DESIGNED AND BUILT...

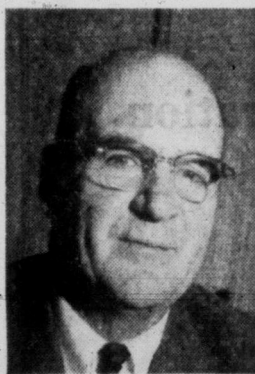

New 1956 Chevrolets, Oldsmobiles and Cadillacs available for immediate delivery.

"G-M PARTS IN A HURRY"

An enlarged Parts Department, in new, more spacious premises is ready to offer an even higher standard of prompt service and perfect satisfaction.

NO—NO CHANGE OF POLICY

The new firm... Morrison, Chevrolet, Oldsmobile Ltd., will maintain the same highest standards of product and service at lowest possible cost that have been the solid foundation of 28 years of successful leadership.

S. A. KEEBLE
Sales Manager

With the firm for the entire 28 years, and carrying on in his well-known capacity of Sales Manager, he has kept abreast of new-car developments through travel, study and factory visits.

R. D. MATTHEWS
Secretary-Treasurer

For 15 years the Office Manager of Wilson Motors, and now newly-appointed Secretary-Treasurer of Morrison Chevrolet, Oldsmobile Ltd.

DAVE EWING
Service Manager

With Wilson Motors for 21 years as service technician, and for the past 3 years as Service Manager, a post he will continue to hold under the new management.

ROB STEVENSON
Used Car Manager

Celebrating 6 years with Victoria's Busiest Dealer... the man to see for today's finest buys in used cars.

TONY McMANUS
Truck Sales Manager

A new car and truck salesman for Wilson Motors for the past 3 years, Mr. McManus moves up to the position of Truck Sales Manager.

EARL WARREN
Parts Manager

With the Island's Largest Dealer for 7 years, carrying on in his familiar capacity of Parts Manager.

with the same DEPARTMENT EXECUTIVES and EXPERIENCED STAFF that have given Wilson Motors Ltd. sales leadership and service satisfaction for 28 years!

New Laws Needed To Boost Revenue

Trades Licence Fees Now Maximum Officials Reply to Smith Proposal

A move by Ald. Don Smith to increase city trades-licence fees must await granting of a special charter, or amendment to provincial laws, it was indicated today.

City hall licensing officials pointed out the city is now charging trades licence fees to the limit of special powers granted by the province, with exception of insurance companies which do not now pay.

The alderman said Saturday he will ask council to increase fees for large businesses here. He said he will seek to increase revenue from this source by $150,000 annually and use the added income to pay costs of a proposed open-air artificial ice rink at Holland Point, to aid in providing an auditorium and to reduce the mill rate.

NEVER PAID

The alderman said many large business firms here are not paying a fair share of city tax income, and some have never paid a trades licence fee. (These are mainly trust com-

$1 MILLION MISSING, AT A BANK

NEW YORK (AP)—Chase Manhattan Bank blushed to its vaults Sunday because somebody misplaced a one-million dollar treasury note.

The bank, one of the largest in the United States, called in 120 clerks for a weekend search of the 4,500 file drawers in its sub-basement.

But with half the drawers checked, the non-negotiable U.S. Series A treasury note was still missing. It had been deposited by a smaller bank. The bank said there was virtually no chance it was stolen—just filed in the wrong place.

Marimos Get Here—All's Well

VANCOUVER (CP)—Six marimo plants from northern Japan arrived here by air Saturday night from Tokyo, apparently ending a controversy sparked by the thought that they might have become a hazard to Canadian fish.

On hand when the plants arrived were Jiro Inagawa, Japanese consular official here, and Carl Lietze, president of the Vancouver Public Aquarium Association.

A strange, ball-like plant, the marimo is noted for the fact that it bobs to the surface of the water to get air.

The six plants, presented Thursday to Canada at the Tokyo home of Canadian ambassador T. C. Davis, are destined for the new Vancouver aquarium which opens in May.

Deputy provincial fisheries minister George Alexander had said the plants would be held at the airport until it was confirmed they would not become a pest.

Saturday, Mr. Lietze said the provincial fisheries department had granted him a permit to bring them in.

A Japanese expert on the marimo, Kunio Yanesawa, wondered meanwhile in Tokyo what all the fuss was about.

"From what we know about how hard it is to propagate marimo," Mr. Yanesawa said, "Fears that they are suddenly going to escape their tank and pop up all over Canada seem slightly ludicrous."

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES BOOST STRENGTH 12%

During the past year Jehovah's Witness members in the southern Vancouver Island circuit increased 12 per cent, Alfred F. Danley, district superintendent, said Saturday.

He addressed a crowd of 700 in a circuit convention in the Club Sirocco.

An immersion service was held in connection with the gathering and 12 persons were baptized.

During the morning, delegates scattered throughout the city invited the public to a talk at 3 p.m. Sunday by Mr. Danley entitled, "Consulting God on World Affairs."

Million-Dollar Wharf Set for Pt. Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—Both deep-sea and local craft will benefit by proposed improvements to the harbor here that will cost close to $1,500,000.

Largest single item will be construction of a new $1,120,000 wharf by MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. to serve the new pulp and paper mill now being built. It will provide berth space for two ships.

The company also will carry on a dredging program to cost an estimated $267,000.

Tenders have been called for construction of three firewalls and a catwalk at the government assembly wharf, to cost $30,000. Other projects are a new public wharf at Port Alberni, and new floats at Alberni, to cost $30,000; renewal

BRISTOL HUNTS GORILLA—AND HIS STUFFING

BRISTOL, Eng. (AP)—A gorilla named Alfred was missing Sunday night. His keeper found the side of his cage bashed open and a trail of straw leading to the street.

Police started searching the town. They suspected kidnapping by students.

"Alfred," a detective explained, "wouldn't do a thing like this by himself. He's never caused the slightest trouble since 1948—the year he was stuffed and put in the city museum."

Roseland-Trail Sacred Group Backs Sommers

'Complete Confidence'

TRAIL (CP)—The executive of the Roseland-Trail Social Credit League at a meeting here Saturday expressed "complete confidence" in R. E. Sommers, member of the legislature for the riding.

The meeting decided to write to Premier Bennett informing him of the association's support for the former lands and forests minister and minister of mines who resigned in the last week of the legislative session.

Royal City Man Pulls Tots From Blazing Car

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Russell Kwas, hotel waiter, rescued two young children trapped inside a blazing car in South Westminster Saturday.

A woman in a nearby car noticed the fire and called employees of the Turf Hotel when she was unable to open the door of the car.

Mr. Kwas pulled the badly scared and smoke-blackened children from the vehicle, then brought the fire under control, playing with matches or a cigarette lighter. The car was owned by G. Reynard of North Surrey.

ANDERSON EXPECTED TO REJOIN COUGARS

Victoria Cougars will likely be near full strength when they meet Vancouver Canucks at Vancouver Tuesday night.

Centre Doug Anderson, sidelined with a shoulder injury for the past week, is expected to rejoin his mates for the crucial contest, Canucks currently leading Cougars by one point.

Condition of coach Eddie Olson, however, has not been determined. Troubled by an ankle injury for the past two weeks, Olson may decide to give the ankle a further rest, rather than take a chance on aggravating the injury.

HECTIC WHL FINISH LOOMS

Final Week To Tell Tale

New Westminster 4, Victoria 3; Seattle 4, Vancouver 1; Saskatoon 3, Winnipeg 0; Calgary 4, Brandon 2

It couldn't have worked out any better if a Hollywood writer had supplied the script.

The Western Hockey League race enters its final hectic week of play today with everything in doubt except that Brandon Regals no longer have a chance for a post-season playoff berth.

Vancouver-Canucks still hold a one-point lead over Victoria Cougars in the western division, each club having three games to play.

Winnipeg Warriors hold a slim two-point lead over Calgary Stampeders in the eastern division.

Seattle Americans and New Westminster Royals are locked up in a tie for third place and the final playoff position in the western division.

The Canucks-Cougars' battle may be resolved Tuesday night when the Canucks host Cougars at Vancouver in the final meeting between the two teams.

Both lost their chances Saturday, Cougars being edged by Royals, 4-3, at Westminster, and Americans whipping Canucks, 4-1, at Seattle.

Cougars play Westminster here Friday and travel to Seattle Saturday for the season's wind-up. Canucks host Seattle Friday and play at Westminster Saturday in their finale.

Cougars twice held the lead against Royals, Goals by Doug Macauley, his 29th, and Wayne Brown, his 21st, put Cougars ahead 2-1 in the first. Doug Adam tallied for Royals.

Bobby Love and Bob Bergeron counted for Royals in the second period. Bruce Carmichael getting the equalizer for Cougars in the third. A tip-in by Gord Fashaway gave Royals their winning edge a minute after Carmichael's goal.

RECORD FOR AMERIKS?

Americans set some sort of a record, for them, by not incurring a single penalty in their 41st of the Canucks. Jack Bowness, Val Fonteyne, Gordie Sinclair and Alex Kuzma tallied for Ameriks while Huge Currie got Canucks' marker.

Warriors lost their four-point cushion in the east when they were blanked 3-0 by Saskatoon while Calgary edged Brandon 4-2.

CRUCIAL GAME

Calgary plays at Winnipeg tonight and could tie Warriors with a victory.

Stamps had a relatively easy time against Regals. Sid McFadden, Rock Crawford and Barry Ross were Calgary marksmen.

Norm Johnson and Doug Bentley scored for Regals.

Goalie Emil Francis sparked the Quaker victory. He stopped 26 shots compared to 15 by Winnipeg's Ed Chadwick. Bill McCreary, Vic Lynn and Eddie Kobussen were Quaker goal-getters.

Six Rinks Reach Semifinal Round

Six of the 32 rinks entered in the Civil Service bonspiel at Victoria Curling Club moved into the jewelry class Saturday after the second day of play.

The 'spiel is being run off on three successive Saturdays, with the finals in the three events to be held next Saturday.

In the primary, shooting for the Princess Mary Cup, MacDonald, Fraser and Cardin are in the semifinals, while in the secondary event, Penman, Calver and Goudal have also reached the fours.

Play is still continuing in the eights of the tertiary.

OLYMPIC STARS WRONG, TOO

Wes Says He's 'Average'

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (BUP)—Wes Santee claimed today that "at least a half dozen stars being counted on for the Olympics could be ruled out" if they were called upon to testify about their expenses before the AAU.

Santee even hinted several athletes would be glad to testify before the Amateur Athletic Union to "collaborate my views and indicate most conclusively that I have not been an exception but just one of the average."

The star Kansas miler, still a hero of U.S. track fans, was permanently suspended by the AAU last month for accepting excessive money at track meets he participated in. A court injunction against the AAU decision has enabled him to continue in competition.

A record crowd of 10,200 fans at the Milwaukee games made it known Saturday night, however, that they still love the Kansas miler. They cheered him on as he won a "special race" that Olympic hopefuls boycotted so they wouldn't risk their amateur standing or Olympic eligibility.

Santee finished a good 80 yards ahead of Ed Kirk, an air force representative, Saturday night in the slow time of 4:10.5. He was allowed to run because of three court orders which protected his amateur status, despite the AAU ruling.

TERRY SAT THIS ONE OUT

Boston goalie Terry Sawchuk's reclining position was not one of indifference but designed to block a shot by New York's Danny Lewicki at Madison Square Garden. Lewicki, departing on right, scored anyway.

Soccer Leaders Still Deadlocked

The two top teams in the Victoria and District Football Association's first division squeezed through with narrow victories Sunday, to remain deadlocked for first place.

City Merchants blanked Vic West, 1-0, on a penalty goal by Ian Holroyd in the second half, while Heaney's kept pace by nudging Esquimalt, 3-2.

Darriel Burley with two goals and Nelson Crisp with one provided the winner's margin, while Nip Sage and Doug Hayward scored for Esquimalt.

In a second division match Sunday, Tillicum moved into second place with a 3-1 victory over Canadian Scottish. Bobby Marrs with two and Vic Skinner scored for Tillicum, while Archie Taylor booted home the Scots' lone goal.

Saturday, league-leading Butler Brothers edged Queen's Own Rifles, 1-0, on a goal by centre forward Garry Crowe 10 minutes before time.

Druce Nets Six Goals For Straths

Led by Tommy Druce's six-goal outburst, Victoria Strathcona wallowed Courtenay, 7-4, in an exhibition soccer game at Reynolds Road Park Sunday.

Druce scored all the goals in the first half as the Straths led, 4-2; booted home the first goal in the second half and finished off the scoring after Johnny Weldon added one for the winners.

Strathconas continue on the exhibition trail Saturday with a possible game against a Seattle eleven. If arrangements can not be made to host the Seattle team, a game will be scheduled against Nanaimo.

Saturday, March 24, Straths will meet North Shore United in a Province Cup game at Athletic Park.

Practice sessions will continue this week at Athletic Park Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Louise Suggs Title Winner

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Steady Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., won the 17th Titleholders golf championship with a two-over-par 302 total Sunday.

When Pat Berg's 15-foot downhill putt on the final hole rimmed the cup and refused to fall.

Miss Suggs, defending champion and six-time winner of this 72-hole tournament, finished one stroke behind the Georgia brunette. Miss Suggs shot a 37-37-74 in a light rain Sunday to win her third Titleholders crown and get a $900 slice of the $5,000 prize money.

The chunky Miss Berg, who picked up $375 in second money, had a 36-36-74 Sunday.

Dugan's Goal Decides Title

Arnie Dugan scored after 21 minutes, 25 seconds of overtime Sunday to give Nanaimo Clippers a 6-5 decision over Vancouver Bombers and the Pacific Coast intermediate hockey championship.

Clippers took the deciding game of the best-of-three final after Bombers had squared the series with a 4-4 win Saturday.

The winning counter was Dugan's second of the night. Other Nanaimo scorers were Don Smith, with two, Don Brown and Plensky.

Lynch with two, Homenuk, Yanichuk and Carlson scored for Vancouver.

Clippers will now meet either Summerland or Kamloops in the best-of-three B.C. final in Nanaimo starting Wednesday.

HOLLYWOOD—Henry Davis, 137, Honolulu, outpointed Art Ramponi, 138, Oakland, Calif., 10-1.

Bruins Bomb Habs Twice To Close Gap on Leafs

John Landy Three-Mile Champ Too

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)—John Landy, the Australian who holds the world record for the mile, easily won the three-mile race at the Australian championships today.

A crowd of about 15,000 was on hand to watch an anticipated duel between Landy and Dave Stephens, the world six-mile record holder, but Stephens dropped out of contention early as Landy went on to finish in 13 minutes 42.2 seconds.

Alec Lawrence of New South Wales was second with Dave Power, also of New South Wales, third.

Landy, who slightly injured a foot in a mile run Saturday when he jumped over a fallen competitor and then stopped to help his opponent to his feet, said he did not feel any ill effects from the accident.

"Now I have to decide whether I should stick to the mile or concentrate on the 5,000 meters for the Olympics," Landy said. His time was 14.8 seconds behind his own Australian record for the three-mile run but track experts attributed this to the racing strategy Landy employed.

Stephens had announced he planned to adhere to 66-second laps throughout the race and Landy looked back over his shoulder for Stephens frequently. He appeared dumbfounded when Stephens faded completely after the second mile.

Big Welcome Planned For Walsh

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Hundreds of well-wishers were expected at Winnipeg's Canadian National Railway's terminal tonight to welcome Billy Walsh and members of his 1956 Macdonald Brier curling champions on their triumphal homecoming from Moncton, N.B.

The Winnipeg Fort Rouge shot-smith, returning with Manitoba's 15th brier crown in 27 tries, were due in the city aboard the CN's curlers' special. They were to be curled from the train into the station rotunda and officially greeted by Premier Douglas L. Campbell, Mayor George Sharpe and former Manitoba Curling Association President Hebbie Axford.

Golden Boy

VANCOUVER (CP)—Don Gehring of South Hill Athletic Club in Vancouver Saturday night won the Optimist Golden Boy award as the best boxer of the two-day Golden Gloves tourney.

Gehring won the 156-pound division championship defeating Bill Porter of the Marpole club in the finals.

Bench-Warmer Barney Eagles' Soccer Hero

Bench-warmer Barney Fredrickson was given his chance at full-time duty Sunday with Canadian Scottish of Division II. Barney took the opportunity and made the most of it.

The substitute winger scored the only goal of the game in Scots' 1-0 victory over Eagles in the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile League final.

As a result of their victory, Scottish will represent the Island in their division in the B.C. Tournament of Champions in Vancouver.

With only five minutes left in the game, John Hicks lofted a high shot at Eagles' goalie Larry DeCosta who deflected it to the waiting boot of Frederickson.

Brian Lindsay turned in a strong game in the Scots' nets to mark up the shutout.

In Division I, Eagles advanced to the Island final by defeating Sooke, 5-1, with Lance Rutherford scoring four goals and Bud McLaren netting the fifth. Bob George scored Sooke's only goal.

Another Eagles team, in Division V, won the Island championship Saturday by defeating Heaney, 2-1 after a 20-minute overtime period.

Larry Johnston got both goals for the winners while Larry Cosier forced the overtime session by scoring for Heaney in the last minute of play. John Fraser played a great game in goal for the winners.

In other Saturday games, Eagles' Division III won the lower Island title by beating a short-handed Canadian Scottish team 6-1 and Combines took the lower Island crown in Division IV by blanking Eagles 3-0.

DUNCAN CURLING BONSPIEL

Gary Merrett Rink Takes Two Titles

DUNCAN (Special)—A young Duncan rink skipped by 18-year-old Gary Merrett won two events Sunday as host club rinks virtually swept the results of the fourth annual Duncan Curling Club bonspiel.

Only outside rink to reach the finals of any of the five events was the Victoria quartet skipped by W. A. MacLean, which won the C. C. Wright primary.

MacLean had three Campbells from White Bear, Sask., wintering in Victoria, curling in front of him.

Merrett defeated the Dick Price rink in the Wadsworth primary final and squeezed by Lowell Berkey in the Cushman-Riverside secondary. Merrett's only loss of the 'spiel was in his opening game Wednesday, when he dropped a decision to Victoria's Larry Marshall.

Winner of the Cowichan Curling Club secondary was the Lee Bannington foursome, while the consolation event was won by Ole Panzer's rink.

In addition to the MacLean rink, only two other outside entries managed to go home with some prizes. Tom Bellamy of Vancouver took third in the Cowichan event, while W. Thompson of Victoria received fourth prize in the Wright primary.

GRID STEW BOILS ANEW

Maybe Hugh Did Take Pay Cut!

By CHRIS EDMONDS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An athletic stew, set simmering last fall by a football players' revolt, may reach the boiling point in the Pacific Coast Conference this spring.

Charges of irregularities in athletic administration have been rocketing up and down the sprawling conference from its northern tip in Washington to its southern end in the Los Angeles area.

There's been a scarcity of official comment from PCC brass, but the situation appears to have reached a stage where official cognizance will have to be taken at least by the time of the spring meeting May 20-24.

The protest last fall by University of Washington gridgers against Coach Johnny Cherbeg put the pot on the stove. Since then Cherbeg has been fired. Athletic Director Harvey Cassill has resigned and existence of a downtown slush fund exposed in Seattle. An inquiry by the state legislature is under way in Washington now.

All this prompted pro star Hugh McElhenny, once a Washington All-American, to disclose that during his undergraduate days he and his wife had a joint monthly income of $800.

The revelation gave some substance to the long-time joke among McElhenny's teammates on the San Francisco 49ers that he is the only player ever to take a pay cut when he turned pro.

A former Oregon State coach, Kip Taylor, tossed a bit of seasoning in when he remarked recently that during his term on the Corvallis campus one player received a bit more than he should have under PCC rules. Taylor, fired at OSC after the 1954 season, did not identify the lad but said he flunked out when it was learned he could "neither read or write."

Arrows Beat Flyers In 'C' Hoop Opener

Ronnies and Bill Benn scored 16 points each to lead Arrow Furniture to a 63-39 victory over Comox RCAF over the weekend in the first game of a two-game total-point series for the Vancouver Island senior C basketball championship.

The victory gives Arrows a 24-point cushion for the second game of the series.

Kimball was top scorer for the RCAF club with 17 points.

Where, oh where, did Boston Bruins get all the power?

There they were in fifth place in the National Hockey League and the writing on the wall said they were just about finished as far as a Stanley Cup playoff berth was concerned.

The weekend doubleheader against the tough Montreal Canadiens would finish the Bruins' season. But Bruins turned on the power and clobbered Canadiens 4-0 at Montreal Saturday and 3-1 Sunday at Boston. Now they're snapping at the tail of Toronto Maple Leafs for the fourth and last playoff position.

Leafs had their three-point margin over Bruins slashed to a single point as New York Rangers whipped them 4-2 at New York Sunday after Leafs took a 5-2 home victory from Rangers Saturday.

HAWKS' HOPES KILLED

Detroit Red Wings killed any mathematical hopes Chicago Black Hawks had of nosing out Boston and Toronto for a playoff spot by defeating Hawks 2-0 Saturday at Detroit. Wings took another 3-2 win from Hawks at Chicago Sunday.

A stunned Montreal crowd of 13,838 saw Bruins turn in a performance Saturday that stamped them as anything but a club still trying desperately to make fourth place.

Don McKenney, Jerry Toppazzini and Johnny Peirson were the goal scorers.

Peirson, McKenney and Vic Stasiuk rolled Bruins into a 3-0 lead before the first period ended Sunday at Boston. Bernie Geoffrion scored Montreal's lone goal.

CONACHER GETS PAIR

A pair of goals by Pete Conacher powered Rangers to their 4-2 win over Leafs before 12,207 fans at Madison Square Garden Sunday.

Goals by Conacher and Wally Hergeheimer put New York ahead 2-0 in the first period. Conacher scored his second goal with only 47 seconds gone in the second and Andy Bathgate boosted the Rangers' lead to 4-0 late in the period. Ron Stewart and Gerry James were the Leafs' marksmen in the final frame.

Saturday, before 13,302 Toronto fans, Dean Prentice and defenceman Bill Gadsby scored 15 seconds apart to give Rangers a 2-0 lead before the game was three minutes old. But Leafs took over from there and pulled away with a three-goal second period.

HOWE GETS TWO

The Toronto scoring was shared by Rudy Migay, Sid Smith, Brian Cullen, Stewart and T. Sloan.

Alex Delvecchio and Metro Prystai scored the Wings' goals at Detroit Saturday.

Two second-period goals by Gordie Howe helped Wings to their win Sunday at Chicago. Lorne Ferguson scored the other.

AVANA—Shitago Martinez, 127½, Cuba, outpointed Andy Arel, 129½, Miami, Fla., 10-0.

'Richard III', TV's Longest, 'Magnificent'

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — A great motion picture created magnificent television entertainment Sunday when Sir Laurence Olivier's "Richard III" made its debut on NBC-TV.

Shakespeare's character study of a hunch-backed villain who schemed and murdered his way to the throne of 15th century England never achieved greater fluidity and dimension than under Olivier's keen direction. The three-hour color film—NBC purchased the TV rights for a reported $500,000—was the longest single program yet seen on the home screen.

When the audience rating report comes in today there will be some indication of American public interest in Shakespeare. A host of luminaries of the British theatre combined with Olivier to interpret the true poetry of Shakespeare with great distinction.

In transforming the last scene of the third part of "Henry VI" into the coronation of Edward IV for his opening scene, Olivier uses an intelligent device for clearing some of the confusion that marked the beginning of "Richard III." The Elizabethan soliloquy becomes startlingly effective when Olivier as Richard, Duke of Gloucester, limps toward the camera and sardonically reveals his schemes, his hopes, his black intent.

The performance of the other actors are of a piece with Olivier's: Claire Bloom as the distracted, empty-headed Lady Anne; Sir John Gielgud as the sad Clarence; Sir Ralph Richardson as the clever Buckingham.

VICE-BUSTER PLANTE CHALLENGED FOR JOB

MONTREAL (CP) — Police director, J. Albert Langlois, barred from holding public office for one year in a judgment handed out in a vice-probe 16 months ago, said Sunday he intends to return to his position as head of the Montreal Police Department.

Langlois, now on a self-imposed leave of absence pending a hearing of his appeal against the judgment, said he will return to office when the current term of the Court of Appeals ends this spring if his appeal is not heard before then.

The post now is held by assistant police director, Pacificque Plante, 47-year-old racket-buster, who took over Friday, a few days after acting police director, Thomas O. Leggett, announced his retirement after 33 years on the force.

Mt. View, N. Saanich Actors Top Festival

By AUDREY SLD. JOHNSON
Senior scholarships, top individual awards in the Greater Victoria Schools Drama Festival, were won by a Mount View High School girl and a North Saanich High School boy.

At the conclusion of the honor performance program Saturday night, in the presence of a capacity audience, Mrs. Lily Harper, Vancouver adjudicator, named Sheila Brown, who played "Mrs. Slater" in "The Dear Departed," and Bob Bader, who played "Issiah" in "Vigil," as winners.

Runners-up were announced as Barbara Geddes of Victoria High School, Moira McCall of Esquimalt High School, David Mar, Victoria High, and Jack Molyneux, Royal Oak Junior-Senior High.

OTHERS
Special junior high school prizes went to Sally Timmis of St. Margaret's School and Richard McRae of the University School. Junior high merit awards went to Louise Forsberg of Mount Newton Junior-Senior High; Sandra Forrester of S. J. Willis Junior High; Ross Macdonald of Oak Bay Junior High; and Gordon Shrimpton of Lansdowne Junior High.

Elementary school awards were won by Lynn Weir of Metchosin and Ross Bryant of Brentwood School. Merit awards in this category were gained by Linda Parfitt, Quadra School; Marilyn Rice, Brentwood; Alex Pethard, Monterey; and Ian Reid, Glenlyon.

The comedy, "Shock of His Life" by Oak Bay Junior High School; "The Singing Maid," a fantasy by Lansdowne Junior High, and the trial scene from Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan" by University School comprised the honor program, bringing to Ways Studied To Attract Dutch to B.C.

The provincial government has been approached by a representative of The Netherlands embassy, Ottawa, to study ways and means of encouraging Dutch immigrants to settle in B.C.

Dr. A. S. Tuinman, agricultural and immigration attaché at the embassy, met with provincial agricultural representatives last week.

He offered for provincial study a plan similar to that now operating in Nova Scotia whereby The Netherlands government guarantees one-third of losses among Dutch agricultural settlers.

12,000 HERE
"We would like to see 2,500 Dutch settle in B.C. each year, both in agricultural and non-agricultural fields," the attaché said today.

Reason for pushing immigration, said Dr. Tuinman, is that the Netherlands today is overpopulated. To maintain the present living standards of the old country, 40,000 immigrants must leave yearly. This figure has not yet been reached.

The Netherlands embraces 13,000 square miles and has 11,000,000 people—living in an area slightly larger than one-half Vancouver Island.

The attaché said he intended to return to B.C. later this year and again discuss methods with the government of increasing Dutch immigration to B.C.

Since the war, 120,000 Dutch have immigrated to Canada.

Kenton Thrills 8,000 Britons As Embargo Ends on U.S. Jazz

LONDON (Reuters)—A 22-year-old ban on American jazz musicians in Britain ended Sunday night in a bedlam of wailing trombones, screaming trumpets and joyful shrieks from 8,000 fans.

Stan Kenton broke the embargo with a session in London's monument to Victorian taste, the Royal Albert Hall.

Stan and his 20-piece band, who opened a month-long tour of Britain, comprise the first American jazz band to play here since 1934, when Cab Calloway appeared in Britain.

The ban was mutually agreed by the American Federation of Musicians and the British Musicians Union.

Huge sales of Kenton's records in Britain had paved the way for him. His manager reports all four concerts scheduled in London are sold out.

34,000 Volts Hit Boy, 8, Still Lives

VANCOUVER (CP) — An eight-year-old boy was fighting for his life today after being badly shocked and burned on a B.C. Electric substation transformer carrying a 34,000 volt charge.

Victim of the mishap, Billy Lintz, was only in "fair" condition, hospital authorities reported.

A quick-thinking young garage attendant helped save the boy who was hurled to the cement base of the transformer.

Neil Robinson, 18, drove to the scene when traffic lights stopped work in the district as he was driving home Saturday night.

CLIMBED FENCE

"I climbed over the barbed wire at the top of the fence and got to him. One guy tried to stop me, and nobody else was doing anything. I figured if he was alive I could give him artificial respiration."

The boy was in convulsions... his left hand was badly burned and his hair, eyebrows and eyelashes were burned off.

There was a ladder against the transformer. Witnesses said the youngster pulled it into the substation grounds after crawling in under the gate. The boy had apparently climbed to the top of the transformer and was hurled down when he touched a wire.

Company officials said the fact the boy was wearing gum boots prevented the charge from grounding and saved his life.

Jamieson Appointed To Gervin Job

VANCOUVER (CP) — E. A. (Ted) Jamieson, professional symphony orchestra player and former president of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council (AFL-TLC), has been named a council secretary.

He takes over on a temporary basis from R. K. Gervin, who is retiring. Mr. Jamieson's appointment may continue if he is nominated and elected permanent secretary April 3.

Mr. Jamieson, a member of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL-TLC), has played for many years with major theatre and symphony orchestras, specializing in the tympani and other percussion instruments.

At present he is business agent for three small AFL-TLC unions representing glaziers, sign painters and paint and varnish workers.

Religious Cartoon

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Lutheran Church says it will begin distributing to churches next fall the first full-color animated cartoon in the religious field. "The Candlemaker" is a 28-minute film, costing $60,000, which aims to teach Christian stewardship to children.

BIG ORDERS FOR DAFFS

Saanich daffodil growers have received offers from eastern buyers for over 5,000,000 blooms for delivery during Easter week.

But growers are reluctant to sign any definite contract for shipment of daffodils because the main crop of flowers may not bloom in time for Easter.

"We are accepting the offers on a tentative basis," G. A. Vantricht, Saanich grower, said today. "We need some warmer weather to bring the crop along in time for Easter."

Victoria, Nanaimo Can Bury Hatchet In Duncan Park

DUNCAN—Mayor Jack Dobson of Duncan has offered the city's Totem Pole Park on the Trans-Canada Highway as a spot for Victoria and Nanaimo mayors to "bury the hatchet."

He accused the two mayors of "swinging the hatchet at each other for some time," although Mayor Percy Scurrey of Victoria and Mayor Earle C. Westwood of Nanaimo endorsed a suggestion last week that the two cities work together for the benefit of Vancouver Island as a whole.

"We must attract more industry, more tourists and more of those thousands of individuals who retire each year in the eastern provinces," Mayor Dobson said. "Victoria and Nanaimo should get together to sell the Island's greatest asset—its climate."

Board Rejects Cemetery Plan For Pat Bay

SIDNEY — Application of Memorial Gardens (Canada) Ltd. to establish a cemetery at Patricia Bay, was rejected by the zoning board of North Saanich regulated area because of "local opposition."

The board decided to turn down the application of Memorial Gardens, W. R. Cannon, board secretary, announced at the weekend. A similar application by the cemetery firm was rejected in Central Saanich last year.

The application was the subject of a public meeting Thursday night at North Saanich High school when residents and representatives of the cemetery firm expressed opinions.

Proposed site for the cemetery was on 26 acres of ground on West Saanich-road immediately south of the airport.

FIRE IN PAPERS KILLS WHEEL-CHAIR INVALID

DUNCAN, B.C. (CP)—A 67-year-old invalid died in hospital here Saturday from burns suffered when papers around his wheel-chair caught fire.

Dead is Enoch Percival Phillip. Police said they believed the fire was started by a cigarette dropped from Mr. Phillip's hand onto newspapers scattered around his wheel-chair at his home.

'TIME IS RIGHT'

Guaranteed Wage Pushed by Squires

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—John Squire, CCF member of the legislature for Alberni, said today the time is opportune for the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) to work toward "some form of guaranteed annual wage."

Mr. Squire is also first vice-president of Local 185 of the union.

Speaking on unemployment among loggers during the last winter, Mr. Squires said: "Without question this past winter, or should I say continuing winter, has been one of the most severe in the history of the Alberni valley when measured in actual days of work lost by the logging section."

"Since the middle of November, loggers have been subject to either a complete or partial loss of regular employment, with thousands of dollars in take-home pay gone forever."

HIGH PRICE

"Certainly the workers are covered by unemployment insurance, but when we stop to consider that the amount of these cheques is equivalent to only about a quarter of the logger's regular take-home pay, then we must recognize that these workers pay a very high price indeed for the privilege of producing

Goldie Named President Of Ball Club

CHEMAINUS—Frank Goldie has been named president of the new Red Sox Baseball Club, formed to run and promote senior amateur baseball here.

Earl English was named vice-president. Directors are Mannie Irving, Jack Knight, Dick Pattison and Murray Poskitt. Secretary-treasurer is Dennis Irvine. Jim Webster was appointed team business manager. Field manager and assistant will be appointed at a later date.

Possibility of a six-team senior amateur league operating this year was mentioned by Al Dyer, president of the Mid-Island League. Teams from Chemainus, Alberni, Port Alberni, Nanaimo and Parksville made up the league last year. There is a good chance Duncan will re-join the loop this year, he said.

OUR VERY OWN GARDENING GUIDE SPRING EDITION

Gardens vary in many respects. There are formal gardens, semi-formal gardens, informal gardens, and common or garden variety gardens.

But all gardens share one characteristic in the spring: They need cleaning up.

During the winter, gardens get to looking like teapots which have had tempests in them.

Therefore, before the gardener can get to gardening in the spring, the gardener must restore some semblance of order to the garden.

This usually involves raking, piling up, hauling away, burning, or throwing things over the fence into the neighbor's yard when the neighbor is not looking.

Even with a co-operative neighbor who manages to be not looking when you throw things over his fence, there is a great deal of physical effort required in cleaning up the garden.

Much of this physical effort, however, can be avoided, if not eliminated entirely, by following a system.

There are many systems advocated by gardening experts. From my own experience, I heartily endorse the W and S system.

By following the W and S system, the gardener can pass the dangerous spring Clean-Up period safely, and without incurring bruises, contusions, or the assorted aches and pains which plague non-W-and-S-system gardeners.

Over the weekend, I used the W and S system to the fullest advantage, with the co-operation of My Favorite Wife.

I assembled an assortment of garden tools, such as rakes, shovels, trowels, bushel baskets, and pint bottles of sarsaparilla.

With these ready to hand, I summoned MFW, who seated herself on a garden bench, and began to help me put the W and S system into operation.

"What about this thing here?" I said, pointing to a large, dead-looking brown vine covering one corner of the rockery. "Is this a weed? Should I yank it out? Or is it a flower, lying dormant, waiting for mother nature's call to burst into full, glorious foliage?"

"Hmmm," said MFW, judiciously. "We'd better W and S."

"Thank you," I said, approaching a black, tree-like growth jutting out from under the porch. "Is this last year's Christmas tree, awaiting cremation on a ceremonial pyre? Or is it, mayhap, an orchis maculata which will be hailed as a horticultural masterpiece?"

"Hmmm," said MFW, helpfully. "We'd better W and S." "Very well," I said, shifting operations to a large, soggy pile of oak leaves. "Is this expendable, or should we allow it to mature even further, so it will become compost to enrich the good earth?"

"Hmmm," said MFW, "we'd better W and S."

So we did, and thus enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon.

The Wait and See system of gardening is pretty hard to beat.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

City public works committee today recommended against pedestrian safeguards sought for the Fernwood-Gladstone area by 219 petitioners.

They had asked for a school zone, a caution light and several crosswalks to halt speeding.

The committee will ask council to approve one crosswalk at Denman and Fernwood, but agreed to postpone the other.

Chief of Police John Blackstock, who said of the area: "I can't see much wrong with it."

An illustrated talk will be given by York Edwards of the B.C. Parks Service on "Wild Life in a Provincial Park" at a meeting of the Margaret Jenkins-Bank Street PTA tonight at 8 p.m. in the Margaret Jenkins auditorium. Classroom will be open and J. Roper will give an explanation and demonstration of the school's new sound system.

Mary Larson, 418 Mary, suffered a cut lip when the car in which she was a passenger collided with another vehicle in the 1300 block Wharf at about 12:45 a.m. Sunday.

City engineer J. C. Garnett told city public works committee today, "I don't know a single city in the world as clean as Victoria."

We made the statement after the committee received a letter from a resident complaining at the fifth on the Causeway, the stench from the harbor and failure of many residents to keep up their homes.

Formerly on the Greater London water board, Mr. Garnett also served at Washington, D.C., and is widely traveled.

Charge of failing to obey a red traffic signal at Pandora and Fernwood brought a fine of $5 or two days in jail for Donald S. Bissett, when he appeared in city police court today.

In city police court today Alexander Martin, 33 Howe, was fined $25 or five days in jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving without a current driver's licence on March 1.

Hans H. Kuhn, 1612 Cedar, was fined $15 or three days in jail when he appeared in city police court today charged with failing to yield the right-of-way to a pedestrian in a crosswalk.

Police said he drove through a crosswalk at Douglas and Kings on Feb. 29, nearly striking one of three pedestrians crossing the street.

Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health meets Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. Greater Victoria Water District meets Wednesday at 10 a.m. City parks board meets at the same time Wednesday, and Victoria Library Board meets at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

The Women's Auxiliary to the North Quadra Boy Scout group will hold its first meeting tonight in the Scout Hall, Glasgow Avenue. R. Mills, executive commissioner, will be the guest speaker.

B.C. plans to spend some $58,000,000 on a capital highways program this year, the largest appropriation in history.

Fears had been expressed that the nation-wide shortage of engineers would slow down the program.

Resident engineers work and live right on the project, checking quantities, laying out grades, and keeping track of the project from start to finish.

All other engineering classifications have been brought up to full strength, except for a shortage of a "few" district engineers, "or will be by the end of March," said a department spokesman.

Engineers are still arriving in Victoria to report for work, following a nation-wide hiring tour by Deputy Highways Minister Evan Jones.

Some 25 new men will be on the payroll by the end of the month.

In addition, arrangements are now being made for the hiring of UBC engineering undergraduates for the summer months, the period of peak activity in the construction field.

PROMOTIONS

"We are all right now as far as engineers are concerned, except for resident engineers," said the spokesman. "We may have to promote some of our instrument men, if they have the qualifications."

"But the road program is okay."

400 Sidney Roofing Jobs Go to Vancouver

Company Confirms Closing Up Here

Sidney Roofing and Paper Co. Ltd. today announced definitely it will transfer all its operations to the mainland.

The move will start next spring, and will be completed by 1959.

It will mean a loss of a $1,400,000 annual payroll for Victoria, and a change of either job or location for the 400 employees.

The announcement, contained in a letter sent to all employees, settles rumors regarding the company's future that have circulated here for months.

"Our present water consumption has been an embarrassment to the city for some considerable time," he said, "and it was to be treble our consumption of water, this could prove a very definite hardship on the rest of Victoria."

Employees will be kept informed as more definite plans are made, Mr. Craig said.

"Your future with the company will be discussed with you on a personal basis," he wrote in his letter. "We sincerely appreciate the loyalty and co-operation we have received from our employees and hope all present employees will wish to continue their association with the company when the move takes place."

John A. Craig, vice-president and general manager, said today 95 per cent of the company's raw material comes from the mainland, while 97 per cent of the finished product is sold off Vancouver Island.

Freight charges between here and the mainland cost the company $600,000 per year, he said.

LIKED VICTORIA

"When people see our problem they wonder why we did not move to the mainland a long time ago," he said. "The reason was, of course, that we liked Victoria, and had too much at stake here to consider a move without thinking it over carefully."

Most of the machinery will be moved, he said, and efforts will be made to find a new occupant for the building. Total investment in Victoria is $4,250,000.

The company was started in Sidney in 1910, and moved to Victoria in 1919. It was sold eight years ago by Robert W. Mayhew to Garfield Weston.

A new machine now on order will produce a large variety of grades of paper board, including chipboard, milk carton stock, bleached manilla, patent coated, mechanical or chemical pulp boards. Its output will be 60 tons per day.

Mr. Craig said the present site prohibits the type of expansion.

Faulty Insulator Causes Blackout

Residents of Langford, Belmont and Sooke were without electrical power Sunday evening because of a faulty insulator on the 60,000-volt line from Jordan river.

The break occurred at 9:01 p.m. Langford and Belmont were dark for 39 minutes, until power could be re-routed from Bay street substation.

Sooke and points west were without power for 49 minutes.

Police found two crows in the car, Mr. McKenzie said, and upon searching Schultz found four detonator caps and strands of electric wire attached to them. A dry-cell battery was also discovered, he said.

Mr. McKenzie said a further search revealed that one of the accused had in his possession a strip of celluloid which is used in lock picking.

Schultz escaped, Mr. McKenzie said and was only recaptured by police after a considerable period.

ROOM SEARCHED

In addition to the materials found in the car, Mr. McKenzie said, police searched Hutchinson's room in a downtown hotel and found 10 more detonator caps with wires attached.

He said the Crown would seek to prove that these instruments were for house-breaking and the three men had no lawful excuse to be in the possession of the caps and crows.

The case is continuing and is not expected to end until late Tuesday.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—In the Senate last week Senator David Croll made a speech in which, as reported by the newspapers, he drew attention to the very great increase in the amount of U.S. capital which has been invested in Canadian business and industry in the last few years. Was he ever a member of the House of Commons?—A.W.C.

A.—Yes. Born March 12, 1900, he has given lengthy and varied public service. He was mayor of Windsor, Ont., 1930-1934 and 1938-1941. He sat in the Ontario Legislature and was a member of the Ontario cabinet, was on active service, 1939-45, and was elected to the Commons in 1945, 1949 and 1953.

Q.—Where is the Ambassador Bridge?—T.N.D.

A.—It is a suspension bridge over the Detroit River between Windsor and Detroit, completed in 1929.

Solarium Work Starts In Summer

Call for Bids Slated for June

Construction of the new $929,000 Queen Alexandra Solarium at Gordon Head is expected to start this summer.

Working drawings will be completed in June and calling of tenders will follow.

On display at the annual meeting of the Queen Alexandra Solarium Society this afternoon at the Empress Hotel was a one-quarter inch scale model of the imposing new structure. It was built over a period of months by John S. Holdstock, administrator and secretary to the board.

Cost of the new solarium, which will move from its present location at Mill Bay where it has been located 29 years, breaks down as follows: Building site, $75,000; construction and fixed equipment, $747,400; site improvement, $36,000; kitchen and other moveable equipment, $65,000; moving from Mill Bay, $50,000.

Federal and provincial government aid is expected to total $345,000; a public appeal last year raised approximately $550,000, and a bequest from an estate totalled $30,000.

Site of the new solarium is on Arbutus Road at Gordon Head in Saanich. Move will increase bed facilities from 50 to 64, with provision for expansion to 96 beds.

There will also be a new outpatient department for youngsters who do not need to stay in bed, and provide follow-up care for those who have been discharged.

Modern design of the new premises has six, eight-bed wards facing front, plus additional wards and nurseries. A second floor provides space for administration offices and a small penthouse will be furnished as a staff residence.

The Mill Bay property has been appraised at $125,000, but it cannot be sold until the new solarium is built. Its completion will mean an 18-mile move for young patients and some of the equipment.

Queen Alexandra Solarium is the only institution in B.C. devoted to long term chronic paediatric care.

Thousands of Tax Refunds Already Mailed in City

By GORDON HOLMS
Member of the Institute of Chartered Accountants

Already the income tax department has issued thousands of refunds this year to those enterprising taxpayers who filed their returns early.

Everyone can't get a refund and some unfortunate will have to pay more than they have already paid.

If you think you have a refund coming, get your return in early. Once the April rush gets under way, refunds must necessarily be made at a much slower pace.

A word of warning to those who still have more to pay: Don't send cash through the mails. Use a cheque or money order. If a letter containing cash is lost you will have to pay twice.

Turns up to $500 in cash have been received by the income tax office in the Belmont Building, a situation that makes officials wary.

TARDY SNOW HERE TONIGHT ... MAYBE?

Snow which was expected in Victoria Sunday night or early today will make a brief belated appearance tonight, according to weatherman William Mackie.

"There was snow today at Port Hardy, and on the west coast as far south as Estevan," he said. "There were even a few flakes at Patricia Bay airport in the morning."

"This disturbance seems to have developed a direct west-east disturbance, though, and only the trailing edge will hit us here," he said.

He predicted a few showers this evening of rain and snow mixed, later turning to rain.

There will be sunshine Tuesday afternoon, westerly winds up to 20 miles per hour, and a temperature range tonight and Tuesday of from 34 to 45 degrees.

TELLS STORY

Mrs. Hall, wife of Art, told this story of the rescue:

"My husband woke up, heard a boat motor start and realized someone was going out."

"He went out in a steel hulled lifeboat tied up here to warn them."

"When he got to them, the boat was taking a lot of water and the engines had stopped."

"He got them off the boat and fastened a tow line. He towed the boat about halfway back to the boathouse when it sank. The water where it sank is about 60 feet deep."

"When the boat became too heavy and started to sink, Art's boat started to go down too, and he had to cut the tow rope."

"If Art hadn't heard them when they went out it would have been too bad."

An onlooker told the Times that the two men could not have swum to shore. The ice was too thick for swimming, and too thin to hold the weight of a man.

Two Saved When Ice Slices, Sinks Boat

Near Tragedy at Brentwood Averted By Quick Work of Boat House Owner

A navy officer and a companion were plucked from a sinking boat minutes before it plunged to the bottom of Finlayson Arm on Sunday morning.

Lt.-Cmdr. Wilfred Pember and an unidentified companion ran into trouble when ice cut through the wooden hull of their 25-footer about a half mile from Hall's Boathouse and the nearest shore.

Art Hall of the boathouse, alarmed when he awoke and saw the boat outbound and cutting through a layer of ice about one-quarter of an inch thick, was credited with saving the two men from drowning.

They had set out from the boathouse at about 6:30 a.m. and were about half a mile out when the boat began taking water and the motor cut out.

Water Licence Hearing March 22

A public hearing on the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. application for a water licence on Cowichan Lake will be held March 22 at Cowichan Village.

Water Rights Comptroller A. F. Paget will conduct the hearing.

Decision to call the hearing was made following protests registered by "about half a dozen" individuals in the Cowichan Lake area.

B.C. Forest Products made the water licence application in connection with its plan to construct a multi-million dollar pulp mill at Crofton.

A good supply of fresh water is essential in pulp mill operation.

The firm proposed to construct a low level dam near the outlet of the lake, to store water at a minimum low level.

B.C. Forest Products will be represented at the hearing, which opens at 10 A.M.

Continued Raw Milk Sale Requested by North Oyster

A resolution endorsing continuation of unpasteurized milk sale on Vancouver Island will be introduced at the annual meeting in Nanaimo Saturday of Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association.

(A new Milk Act adopted at the last session of the legislature calls for complete pasteurization of all milk. Action arose out of Mr. Justice J. V. Cline's milk probe report to the government.)

North Oyster group of the association, sponsor of the resolution, will ask the government, subject to continuance of current inspection practices, take no action that might interfere with existing or future supply of raw milk to consumers who ask for it.

The resolution claims that 80 producer-distributors on the island sell raw milk and never have a surplus, whereas distributors of pasteurized milk "are constantly plagued" with the inability to sell all their milk.

Mrs. Lydia Arsens, Victoria M.L.A., will be guest speaker at the meeting, to be held at 2:30 p.m. in the Canadian Legion hall. Her subject will be "Why pasteurize milk and fluoridate milk?"

George E. Bonner, Cobble Hill, president of the association, will conduct the meeting. Election of officers will take place.

SHOPPING GUIDE

The Wearin' o' the Green
Is in Order for Saturday

By PENNY SAVER

Irish tunes, jigs and brogues will be the order of the day come Saturday, for sure and begorra it isn't St. Patrick's Day! If you've even a hint of Irish ancestry you're entitled to wear proudly a shamrock, St. Pat's day corsage or any touch of green in your wardrobe.

It's often said by people with traces of the Irish in them that there are only two nationalities—the Irish and those who wish they were Irish. True or not, everyone hails the Emerald Isle's saint on this bright day smack in the middle of Lent.

A shamrock that won't wilt and die is the one that I've bought to wear on my lapel. It's of green silk webbing, held in a shamrock shape by dainty wire, and attached is the tiniest white clay pipe.

Plain shamrocks without the pipes may also be bought to wear alone or with another pin. These are four for a nickel and the ones with the pipes are three for a nickel.

A real touch of spring you'll see in the Ireland-day corsage that has a small sprig spray of pussy willow, shamrocks, a clay pipe or small black hat, and a puff of a green bow. Pretty as springtime, and perfect for St. Patrick's day, they're 25 cents each.

Speaking of springtime, everywhere I look, there are more accessory flowers that look just like fresh ones. Doesn't a black rose sound glamorous? You may own one with touches of velvet to its softly shaped petals for $2.25. Would a cluster of clover enhance your soft-toned tweed you've chosen this season? If so, come see the shaded ones in one of Victoria's smart accessory shops. There are three shades, each cluster costing 65 cents. Lilac, that looks so real when you expect to detect the delicate scent is also among the spring collection of blooms.

Lilac is $2.25. A spray of wheat, a wonderful complement, for that casual tweed, costs $1.25. Away from such pretty things and thoughts for a moment, I'd like to tell you about something entirely different. I'm talking about oven cleaners. Even though spring clothes and accessories are dazzling us, spring also means cleaning time.

Oven cleaning is often put off and put off until, when you do do it, it's a real job. Of course, the manufacturers have come to the rescue again with a spray-on-wipe-off cleaner that works in a whiz. This cleaner costs $1.69 for a bomb.

Another cleaner comes in a bottle equipped with a small brush. This cleaner you brush on, leave for a few hours, and wash off. The drudgery has really been taken out of this little chore, hasn't it? The last mentioned cleaner costs either 59 or 98 cents a bottle.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you the names of the stores where any of the items mentioned in the column may be found.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Adequate, Nutritious Diet
Is Essential for Teen-Ager

A vital and well balanced diet is important to everyone. It is especially essential to the teenage girl, or boy, for that matter. It is especially essential because this is the period of rapid growth and development. Yet surveys have shown that our teen-agers are likely to eat very poorly.

This is due to the fact that they so often ruin their appetites for the valuable foods by eating in between meals. Also, when they go out with the gang the sort of food they eat is seldom what the nutritionist would recommend.

If you teen-agers have any doubt about the importance of an adequate diet, not only to health and pep but to looks, you should gather around and hear about the diet year which the Texas State College for Women conducted. One hundred and 25 girls were put on a scientifically planned diet for a year.

At the end of that year practically all of them felt much better, had much more energy and pep and fun. The improvement in looks was in many cases startling. Muddy, sallow or plainly complexioned, cleared up in numerous cases. Hair and skin and color generally improved.

It is even thought that a poor diet during teen-age may lead to difficulty at delivery during the child bearing years.

While you do not have the same opportunity the girls of Texas State College had, you can carry out the rules of good nutrition in your own home if you will remember a few simple rules.

Drink a quart of milk a day. Drink a large glass of orange, grapefruit or tomato juice daily. Eat a generous helping of meat or fish or fowl daily. Eat at least one of the yellow or leafy vegetables daily. Eat one egg a day.

When you think of a candy bar, instead eat fresh fruit. You should have at least one helping a day.

You need some starch. Get this in whole grain or vitamin-reinforced products. The baked potato is also a fine source of carbohydrate.

Remember that an interest in good nutrition is not old fashioned but is most up to date, and that it is a beauty as well as a health routine.

If you would like to have my leaflet which was planned especially for teen-age girls send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 58. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

AS WE LIVE

Deflate Husband's Ego
By Laughing at Him

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

When a person likes to show off by making himself out to be superior, it is best to deflate his ego.

Q. "We have been married two years, have a small baby, and are very happy. My only real problem is the way my husband acts when his mother is around. My mother-in-law is a very nice person and has been very good to all of her married children. Last Sunday, my husband invited her down for the evening. He fixed supper for all of us, a thing he has never done before. He started to insult my cooking and tried to make me out to be dumb in front of his mother. It was all done in a joking way, but his mother and I didn't see the joke. His mother said he was showing off. My sister-in-law told me her husband acts the same way in front of his mother. I would like to know what to say about this to my husband to get him over this habit. It has happened before but only when his mother is with us."—E.J.

A. As long as you obviously have your mother-in-law on your side, it should not be hard to break your husband of the habit of inflating his ego at your expense, and that is what he is doing. Talk over the matter with your mother-in-law in private and get her co-operation and support.

The best way to fight fire, as the old saying goes, is with fire. This means you should give your husband a taste of his own medicine. Let him see how he feels when you ridicule him in front of his mother or someone he wants to impress.

He obviously knows you are proud of your cooking and household skills. That is why he is picking on them and teasing you about them. By now, you surely know what he is proud of and what he thinks he can do well.

That is where your line of attack should be. When he starts to talk about your cooking or your "stupidity" in front of his mother, tell her you have a good story about your husband she would enjoy. Then tell her about some of the things he has done, such as fixing a lunch, and how slow, inefficient, and messy he was about it. Be sure this is done in a joking way and that your mother-in-law laughs with you.

Make Up to Your Easter Bonnet
When Its a Posy Atop Your Head

If your new hat has flowers shade. Key it to the flower other hand, flower colors are piled a foot high. If it's an enormous posy-laden platter, or if it's one enormous rose, unfolded petal by petal, make-up to the Easter bouquet on top of your head.

You'll look, says a well-known Hollywood make-up artist, more feminine than women have looked since garden party days. Since John Singer Sargeant painted great flower-hatted belles.

Your make-up cues? Pale skin, delicate features, a colorful mouth and arresting eyes, says the Hollywood expert, who gives you in a capsule his make-up scheme:

1. Wear the make-up foundation that's compatible with your skin tones, and choose it in a glowing natural color.
2. For eyes that must hold their own with almost overwhelming hats, wear more eye make-up. Use the eyebrow pencil—in one or two colors; more eye makeup; a touch of eye shadow. Remember that green eye shadow is a natural with flowers, no matter what their color.
3. Wear a lovely clear lipstick.

Fishing in Bedouin Style With Long Pole, Tiny Hook

By LYNN NEWTON LOWES

Lynn and Peter Lowes are enjoying many new experiences in Lebanon where the latter is attached to the United Nations Relief Work group. Letters such as the one in this column bubble with enthusiasm for the new life and the people.

Beirut, Lebanon
"Yesterday we went fishing, Bedouin style, but not with Bedouin luck. This means fishing with a very long bamboo pole, a fine line and tiny hook on which you put a bit of shell fish, or crab meat, or even a flour and water paste. The Arabs seem to use the last named with great success.

"We drove up to Amchite, near Byblos. The plan was to go underwater fishing with a spear-gun with a young boy there but he had to rush off to a funeral so that finished it. We joined the rows of men with their poles along the rocks, to try and catch some very small fish, about five inches long. Nobody knows the name of these fish in French and the Arabic could be anything, its difficult to tell you what they are. But they are good to eat after they are smoked in a pile of dry grass on the beach.

"Underwater swimming with a mask is the best sport we've discovered. One sees much more clearly than normal vision above water. It's like a third dimension and it gives the impression of flying. The fish are birds like ourselves and they become quite used to us and swim very close. The coast is fascinating here (underwater) with its caves and ledges, sea plants, shells and many brightly colored fishes of all description.

Visit Family With Many Cousins

"We've been to Sidon and Tyre with some Canadians and Americans to visit a large Lebanese family who own most of the land from Tyre to the Israeli border. I say large because there are from two to three thousand cousins connected with this family. (People are very family conscious here and families seem to stay close together so there are whole villages populated by one family.)

"We met, I'm sure, a dozen cousins of the family we visited. They kept dropping in for a chat or a drink continuously, all afternoon.

"This family have orange and banana groves here. They grow bananas between the orange trees until the orange trees are six years old, then they remove the bananas. The oranges, for the most part, were not quite ripe but we were able to taste them. Apparently there are many varieties of oranges. Grapefruit and tangerines also grow here.

"The hospitality of these people is really something. Every time we go to a home it amazes us. They feed you until you feel that you are going to burst and it is considered impolite to stop eating. On the centre of the table for lunch (3 p.m.) there was a roast lamb stuffed with rice and on either end were whole fish baked, each of a different type. Scattered about were huge bowls of fried chicken and a sort of fried hamburger patties as well as the usual potato chips and masses of bread. On the buffet at the side were piles of fresh fruit.

Home Amid Umbrella Pines

"We've found an apartment away from the city up in the mountains, right in the umbrella pine forest overlooking the city and sea. As it was unfurnished we scouted around for stoves and a frig and with a couple of carpets, some leather puffs and camel saddles, it will look fine. I've had a lesson on Persian carpets and I know the makes and what to look for but I'll get a Palestinian friend to go with me when I buy.

"I know Beirut fairly well now and believe me it is quite an experience driving here. I have heard that Beirut and Mexico City are supposed to be the worst in the world for unregulated driving and I almost believe it.

"Most of the driving is confined to taxi and service taxis and drivers go all over the city at top speed without any regard to rules. The drivers are such a powerful force here that the policemen do not dare to interfere or they will be quietly beaten up. Taxis and service taxis (a taxi with a special route) are very cheap. It is better for me to take a service taxi at 25 piastres (8 cents) to town than to take the car.

"There are masses of one way streets and I invariably go down one the wrong way."

Millin-Dyer Wedding Held in St. David's

Rev. D. C. O'Connell, per of the bride, proposed the toast formed the wedding ceremony to her happiness. Following a honeymoon trip Althea Dawn Dyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Dyer, 4939 Van-Cordova Bay road, exchanged vows with Allan Francis Millin, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Millin, Vancouver.

The bride entered St. David's by-the-Sea, Cordova Bay, on the arm of her father, while A. S. Miller played traditional organ music. She wore a pale blue taffeta dress fashioned with a full, ballerina-length skirt and complemented by a small matching hat. Her bouquet was of white carnations and red roses. Her paternal grandmother, Mrs. P. S. Dyer made her wedding gown.

Miss Joan Johnson was only attendant, and wore a darker blue taffeta dress styled identically to the bride's. She carried a crescent of daffodils. Best man was Harry Ruppel, and ushers, David Genn and N. Millan. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Miller, sang several selections.

A small family reception was held, where Mr. Gillan, uncle

Spring Blossoms Form Setting For Ceremony

Bright daffodils and white narcissus were placed on the altar of St. Matthew's Church, Langford, for the Saturday evening wedding which united Muriel Joan Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Stewart, 2926 Leigh Road, Langford Lake, with Norman Edward Fraser, RCAF, Sea Island, Vancouver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fraser, Dunford Avenue, Langford.

Rev. Hywell J. Jones conducted the ceremony and during signing of the register, Arthur Stringer sang "The Lord's Prayer." J. Flatman was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a strapless gown of white taffeta with full length, bouffant skirt. Wide bands of lace were inserted in a net overskirt, and she wore a dainty lace bolero of matching lace. A white lace cap outlined with pearls and net held her fingertip embroidered veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink rapture roses, pink carnations and gardenias.

Maid of honor, Miss Eleanor Eilers, wore a gown of yellow satin with ballerina-length skirt and lace bolero and matching gloves.

Bridesmaids, Miss Rosemary Element, Miss Margaret Cal-lander and Miss Maxine Fraser, were similarly gowned in net over taffeta with lace bolero, in yellow, blue and pink, respectively. All attendants carried colonial bouquets of iris and carnations and wore matching carnations in their hair.

Milton Fraser was best man and ushers were Jack Blain, Fred Green and Robert Fraser. At the reception in St. Matthew's parish hall, Lieut.-Cmdr. E. A. Jamieson proposed the toast to the bride. Plum blossom, daffodils and mauve tulips decorated the hall and a three-tiered wedding cake, flanked by mauve candles and daffodils centred the bride's table.

Assisting the young couple receive guests were their mothers, Mrs. Stewart wearing a blue and pink flowered taffeta dress with navy coat and accessories, and Mrs. Fraser wearing a brown dress with eggshell color-trim and brown and white accessories. They wore corsages of white and pink carnations, respectively.

For a honeymoon trip up-Island, the bride donned a navy corded silk dress with white trim, blue straw hat, grey Chinese kid skin jacket and black accessories. She wore a gardenia corsage.

The newlyweds will make their home at Sea Island, B.C.

Sheep on Highway Bring $2.50 Fine

SIDNEY—Found guilty of allowing sheep to trespass on West Saanich Road, Mrs. Annie Bill, Cole Bay, was fined $2.50 in RCMP court Saturday.

In addition, she was ordered to pay $5 costs and $20 damages.

Henry James, also of Cole Bay, was fined $15 for theft of a guitar.

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT CHEWING GUM

Enjoy chewing Wrigley's Spearmint every day!

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books? Then ask Andy!

Andy, who is a pirate, not a person, will answer two questions daily submitted by children on the "Ask Andy" column. The questions must be submitted by the children themselves, either a 16-volume set of "The Children's Hour" or a 20-volume set of "The American People's Encyclopedia." Prizes for the secondary question will be an "American People's Encyclopedia Year Book" or a year's subscription to "Treasure Trail" plus "Andy's Busyday Encyclopedia."

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times, Victoria.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of The American People's Encyclopedia to Elliott Swanson, aged 11, of San Francisco, Calif., for his question:

Is There a Man-Eating Plant?

Some of the best yarns are told about the facts of nature. But often these facts are somewhat stretched. This seems to make a more exciting story. However, it can lead to confusion in our nature study classes. Yarns about man-eating plants come in this category. There are meat-eating plants, but not such plants as tackled a live man for dinner.

As you know, plants tend to grow better in certain soils. The farmer has to enrich his land with fertilizers. These are chemicals which the crop plants use as food. Nitrates are among the important fertilizers. And certain soils are very short of nitrates.

Plants growing wild in these areas have a problem. They can give up and perish for lack of a balanced diet, or they can find another way to get their nitrates. A very few plants have found a strange way to get a proper diet of nitrates. These are the ones that have become meat-eaters. These plants grow special leaves to trap and digest live insects. These are the insectivorous plants that get their needed chemicals from raw insect meat. Most of them feed on small flies. A bee is a banquet. A small mouse would astonish and probably ruin the whole plant. None of them could tackle a dinner as big as a house cat, let alone a human being. So, being eaten alive by a plant is one worry we can forget.

Each of these insectivorous plants has its own way of booby trapping its meat course. The sundew is a pretty little rosette of pink leaves. Each round leaf bristles with hairs tipped with dewy goo. Mr. Fly arrives to investigate. The dew turns out to be sticky enough to hold his feet fast. The round leaf turns out to be a folding spoon or dinner plate. For, once he is stuck fast, the little leaf folds up and digests him.

Another insectivorous plant grows only along the shoreline of the Carolinas. It is the Dionaea, or Venus's fly-trap. The leaves of this meat-eater are larger than those of the sundew. They are hinged down the center, which enables them to snap shut in a flash. If a small stone falls by accident on these leaves the plant soon knows about it. It opens suddenly, tossing out the indigestible stone. Mr. Fly gets another sort of treatment. When he lands on the leaf he is locked in until digested.

The largest of the insectivorous plants grows in the Southern U.S. It is the tall pitcher plant. Its booby trap leaves grow in the shape of tall, slender pitchers, complete with open lid. Mr. Fly investigates with the rim of the pitcher. He finds it slippery and down he plops into a pool of juices kept ready below. The juices are digestive juices.

Since time began, animals have been feeding on plants. But only a few plants have ever retaliated. And even they prefer to get their food from chemicals in the soil.

Long Prison Term Said Purgatory

In view of the public interest in the recent vote to abolish the death penalty in Britain, and the importance of the report of the Canadian committee on capital punishment, which will be brought down in the Commons during this session, the Victoria Daily Times is publishing a series of articles by noted writer Arthur Koestler. They are condensed from his forthcoming book, "Reflections on Hanging."

By ARTHUR KOESTLER

The majority in the House of Lords which in 1948 defeated abolition of hanging for a trial period was based on a holy alliance between those who proclaimed with the Lord Chancellor that a life sentence was a cruelty "worse than death," and those who thought with Lord Sandhurst, that it was not cruel enough.

Unless we look out (the noble Lord warned the House) prison will become a home from home, and the next thing will be that they will be giving the beggars weekend leave.

We have to remember that quite a large proportion of the criminal population come from, and are the result of, bad housing and bad homes. The effect would be to make prison more comfortable than home, and even now such people know that when they go to prison—and the magistrates' courts produce evidence of this—at least they will be warm throughout the winter.

Which proves that Hansard can be funnier than P. G. Wodehouse. But this kind of nonsense, it may still be thought, that the swimming pool and dramatic society of Leyhill means going too far towards spoiling the criminal. The answer is that conditions even in the most modern prisons seem more idyllic when one reads about them than if one has to live in them. A quarter-century ago, before the great prison reform got under way, Sir Alexander Paterson told the Select Committee that whatever means be employed to mitigate the prisoners' sufferings, "it requires a superman to survive 20 years of imprisonment with character and soul intact."

Conditions Radically Changed

Since this was said, prison conditions have been radically changed, and terms of detention shortened. Yet even so, detention for six, eight or 10 years is a very dreadful thing. It is a modern purgatory with welfare services, skillies and ping-pong, yet a purgatory nevertheless which those who never lay in gaol cannot really visualize even if endowed with sympathy and imagination. In its matter-of-fact language, the Royal Commission says that:

"The deterrent effect of imprisonment on the individual offender lies primarily in the shame of being sent to prison. An offender is sent to prison as a punishment and not for punishment."

However terrible the act that landed him in limbo was, the cracking of a human skull or the stopping of a human breath, the delinquent is chewing the cud of his deed and vomiting it out and swallowing it again at least once a day, multiplied by 365, multiplied by five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, repeating to him or herself "If only at that moment I hadn't..."

'Lifers' Reasonable, Well Behaved

Whatever reforms are introduced, even if the bars vanish and the prison is an open one, this basic condition cannot be remedied because it is the essence of the prisoner's condition, the irreducible core of his punishment.

That is the reason why "lifers" are so reasonable and well behaved, and give less trouble than the small fry. The primary cause is not the hope for privileges and remissions but the fact that the only way open to the prisoner to save the remainder of his human dignity, and to avoid further humiliation, is to be a model prisoner. It is no exaggeration to say of a man who has been condemned to die and has worked himself through purgatory and finally regained his freedom, that he has earned every moment of it at a much higher price than ordinary mortals, born under kinder stars.

When the prisoner has served his six, or eight, or 12 years, according to the case, he is not simply turned loose with a "go and sin no more." Steps for his reintegration into society start in fact as soon as he arrives in prison.

As the end of his term of imprisonment approaches, he may be granted permission to go home on leave for periods of five days, not earlier than four months and not later than two months before the date of discharge.

Some prisoners are released on a licence which binds them to report any changes of address to the After Care Association, and to comply with certain other conditions, but they are the exception, not the rule. The general tendency is that once an ex-murderer is considered worthy and safe to be released, he should be allowed to resume a normal life without ties and reminders of the past.

It is reassuring to note that the police who, as a body are the stoutest supporters of the death-penalty, are most co-operative in helping a man who has escaped that fate, to find his feet again. The same paradox applies to the Home Office, which stubbornly defends capital punishment and yet engages in bold, humane experiments, like "open prisons" to ease the life of those who have been spared.

THE ANSWER TO STRAFFEN AND CHRISTIE

A special problem is the category of murderers who are mentally abnormal, but not technically insane. As we saw before, the Home Office and the Royal Commission agree that in this class "and in it alone, are likely to be found any prisoners whom it would be unsafe ever to release."

The only possible solution for this group is confinement in a special institution, half-way between ordinary prison and mental hospital, where they are treated and kept during an indeterminate period—which in some cases means to the end of their lives. A special institution of this kind is now in the process of being created in this country. On the Continent there are several of them—the best known at Herstedvester, in Denmark.

At the worst, a part of the mentally sick must be regarded as the drones of society, as we regard their brothers and sisters in misery, the certified insane. The distinction between the two is a matter of technical definitions, and since we regard it as a barbarity to kill the insane, it is equally barbarous to kill those whose sickness our courts deny on the strength of a diagnostic rule, established by lawyers in 1843.

Qualicum C of C To Issue More Publicity Folders

QUALICUM BEACH—Another 20,000 copies of the publicity folder issued last year will be ordered in 1956 by the Qualicum Beach Chamber of Commerce when funds become available.

Cost of this order will be less than half the original outlay, since the plates have been made.

A letter from the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway, read at the regular chamber meeting, stated that cost of installing an automatic electric "wig-wag" signal on the line at the entrance to the main street of the village would be excessive.

Attention will be given to a suggestion to clear and lower the south bank of the line through the village to give a better view of approaching trains.

The highway from the beach to Alberni enters the village at the crossing concerned.

Fast-Rising Pianist Plays Here Tonight

Leonard Pennario, who will play a piano recital tonight at the Royal Theatre, is a young man rapidly on the rise to the peak of international pianism.

While he has been recording triumph after triumph in his native America, he has not neglected to present himself to critical European audiences and with outstanding success.

In the spring of 1952, Pennario's first tour through Holland, Italy, France and England was greeted with many review superlatives. Following a sold-out recital at the Salle Gaveau in Paris, he was described as "a phenomenon of the piano."

Banking System Able To Cope With Boom

QUALICUM BEACH—The Canadian banking system, and specifically the trends in the past 10 years, was the topic of an address given to the Rotary Club by A. M. H. Hodgins, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, branch here.

Mr. Hodgins said the flexibility of the Canadian banking system should be able to take care of the present rapid economic development in the country.

An increase of new branches up to 30 per cent during the period had marked the expansion of banking facilities.

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!

Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"

Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules:

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."

3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only. Polident Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest-selling denture cleanser. Polident, at your drug counter.

Ontario 'Brands' Its Drunk Drivers

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says 1,500 Ontario drivers have been "branded" by being forced to carry bright red drivers' licences. The red licences, with the word "reinstated" printed in black diagonally across the face, had gone to persons convicted of drunken or impaired driving and whose suspensions have been lifted since Oct. 1.

A highways department official was quoted as saying such drivers exercise more care because they "are not proud when they have to pull out a red licence when a policeman stops them."

Bold Safecrackers Hit City Wholesaler

BRITISH JET BEATS U.S.-HELD WORLD MARK

LONDON (AP)—Britain announced Sunday that its "droop snoot" jet plane had recaptured the world speed record from the United States with a run of 1,132 miles per hour.

The record-breaker is a dart-like jet formally known as the Fairey Delta 2.

It turned in the high-speed performance over a nine-mile course in southern England Saturday.

The jet flew at 38,000 feet. It made two runs, one at 1,117 miles an hour, and the second at 1,147 miles an hour.

Bennett Hopeful Of New Tax Deal

Returned Premier Will Try For 'Better State of Goodwill'

By TOM GOULD, Times Legislative Reporter
Premier W. A. C. Bennett today laid down an entirely new policy of "goodwill" toward the federal government.

In a major statement of policy, the premier told a press conference today "we are going to try to create a better state of goodwill" between the two governments.

Two disclosures were made during the press conference: 1. The premier said he is "hopeful for the first time" that a mutually satisfactory tax agreement will be worked out by Ottawa and B.C.

2. Northern Affairs and Natural Resources Minister Jean Lesage and his advisors will come to B.C. in the spring to discuss "a fresh look" at development of the hydro-rich Columbia Basin.

On every previous occasion, the premier's return from Ottawa has been marked by a bitter blast at the central Liberal administration. He has called Ottawa's attitude to B.C. "unfair" and "discriminatory."

Observers read into his statements today a major shift in Social Credit policy.

"The whole feeling at this conference was better," remarked the premier.

The B.C. delegation met privately with Prime Minister St. Laurent and his aides on Saturday morning, following a full-scale meeting of the provincial premiers and federal representatives Friday.

"I can't give you any details, but I came out of the separate meeting" more pleased and more hopeful than a satisfactory agreement will be worked out than ever before," said Premier Bennett.

NEW LOOK

The premier said today his government, and Ottawa, are going to "take a new look, a fresh look" at the development of the Columbia Basin.

He predicted Mr. Lesage would arrive in B.C. "some time this spring to discuss the Columbia River" and that he hoped this conference would be a preliminary to an international conference on the Columbia.

B.C. and Ottawa were at odds for months as a result of a B.C. proposal to allow Kaiser Aluminum interests to dam the Columbia at the outlet of Lower Arrow Lakes.

"That's why both the CCF and Liberal parties are in terrible trouble," he said.

"More and more CCF and Liberals are joining our party now, particularly since the session. It is similar to the great rush of 1952," he said.

Asked whether he thought the parties in opposition might form a new coalition party, the premier scoffed.

"What? A coalition of remnants? That would be a coalition to end all coalitions."

"The opposition parties couldn't find any issues," he said. "That's why both the CCF and Liberal parties are in terrible trouble."

$1,000 Cash Taken In Weekend Raid

Mattock-swinging safecrackers made a $1,000 haul from a Johnson Street food warehouse overnight Saturday, the second safecracking on Vancouver Island in three days.

The yeggs hacked their way through the bottom of a safe at A. P. Slade (Victoria) Ltd., 95 Johnson Street.

Two other break-ins also are under investigation by city detectives.

About $139 was taken from Shepherd's Dairy, 1645 Fort, and $250 worth of tools and automotive equipment was stolen from Capital City Service Ltd. garage, 2650 Douglas.

WARNING

Victoria police were warned Friday by Nanaimo RCMP to be on the alert for safecrackers who blew a safe at Island Bottling Ltd., Nanaimo, and escaped with $500. The safe was blown with such force a dial flew through the roof of the building.

But city police said today they doubt if the two thefts are the work of the same gang.

The safecrackers apparently found no difficulty in cracking the safe at Slades.

They took only cash, leaving a large sum in cheques undamaged.

The safe was rolled on its wheels from a front office to a banana-ripening room in the rear of the premises.

The burglars then tipped it on its side and hacked it open. Police believe they used a mattock.

Office manager David Hunter noticed the safe missing when he arrived to do some office work shortly after 11 a.m. Sunday. It was later discovered in the rear room.

The safecrackers gained entrance to the premises through a ventilation door in the basement at the south corner of the building.

USED HATCHET

The door handle and lock on the door were cut out, probably by a hatchet.

In the Shepherd's Dairy theft an office was ransacked and $139 stolen from a filing cabinet drawer.

Locked drawers were smashed, cabinets were upset and papers scattered about the floor.

A pane of glass was removed.

Allowed rate of return is 6.5 per cent.

Gross revenue from operations was $63,400,000, up 7.1 per cent from 1954, while operating expenses of $48,800,000 were 3.3 per cent higher than the year before.

Net income of the subsidiary B.C. Electric Co. Ltd. and its subsidiaries was $10,364,887, compared with $7,838,349 the previous year.

After deducting operating expenses of the B.C. Power Corporation, net income was $10,289,445.

The 1956 construction program calls for expenditure at $75,000,000, an all-time high. Public financing for this program has been largely completed.

BCE Earnings Hit Record $6.9 Million

Earnings by the B.C. Power Corporation, parent company of B.C. Electric, soared to a record high of $6,956,095 in 1955, president Dal Grauer stated in his annual report today.

This represents $2.05 per share on the 3,401,470 common shares outstanding at the year-end.

It compares with 1954 earnings of $5,127,357 or $1.62 per share on the 3,168,380 common shares outstanding at the end of that year.

On the basis of public regulations under the Public Utilities Act, the 1955 operating income represents a return on investment of 5.8 per cent, compared with 5.5 per cent for 1954.

No-Hanging Vote Today In U.K. House

LONDON (Reuters)—Political agitation to stop the hanging of murderers enters a new phase here today when the House of Commons takes a new vote on whether the death sentence should be abolished or suspended.

The Commons on Feb. 16 defied the advice of the government and voted by a majority of 31 for the cessation of capital punishment.

But to the dismay of the abolitionists, the government refused to bring in an official bill to give legal effect to this decree. Instead, it decided to allow time for debate and a vote on a private member's bill, already before Parliament, which seeks to abolish or suspend the death penalty.

This bill was introduced some time ago by Sydney Silverman, a Labor member and lawyer.

ALLOW "FREE VOTE"

As in the previous hanging debate, the government will allow a "free vote"—which means members of all parties can decide as they like regardless of what their leaders wish them to do.

No pressure will be put on any member to vote any particular way. Present signs suggest about 30 Conservatives may join the Laborites to vote again to end hanging. If they do, the abolitionists are certain to get a majority.

Last time the House of Commons voted to end hanging, in 1953, the House of Lords subsequently rejected this decision.

The peers have power to delay, but not to quash such legislation, and if the MPs had been sufficiently determined, they could have forced their decision in due course. But the parliamentary battle coincided with a wave of violent crime in Britain, and the matter was dropped.

Gross revenue from operations was $63,400,000, up 7.1 per cent from 1954, while operating expenses of $49,800,000 were 3.3 per cent higher than the year before.

Net income of the subsidiary B.C. Electric Co. Ltd. and its subsidiaries was $10,364,887, compared with $7,838,349 the previous year.

After deducting operating expenses of the B.C. Power Corporation, net income was $10,289,445.

The 1956 construction program calls for expenditure at $75,000,000, an all-time high. Public financing for this program has been largely completed.

Bennett Optimistic
On Tax Deal
Major Policy
Shift Possible

By TOM GOULD
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today laid down an entirely new policy of "goodwill" toward the federal government.

In a major statement of policy, the premier told a press conference today "we are going to try to create a better state of goodwill" between the two governments.

Two disclosures were made during the press conference:
1. The premier said he is "hopeful, for the first time," at a mutually satisfactory tax agreement will be worked out by Ottawa and B.C.
2. Northern Affairs and Natural Resources Minister Jean Lesage and his advisors will come to B.C. in the spring to discuss "a fresh look" at development of the hydro-rich Columbia Basin.

On every previous occasion, the premier's return from Ottawa has been marked by a bitter blast at the central Lib.

Arab Nations Pool Forces,
New Clashes Fire Border

(Times News Services)
CAIRO — The Arab "Big Three" today announced completion of "co-ordinated defence plans" to meet any Israeli aggression.

Almost simultaneously Israeli charged new border violations by Egypt, Syria and Jordan, and accused Egypt of "warlike" massing of forces along the frontier.

The Arab Big Three's Cairo communique—signed by Egypt's Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, Syria's President Shukri Kuwaty and Saudi Arabia's King Saud, after six days of conferences—hinted the trio intends to act independently of the nine-nation Arab League.

The communique referred to an "all inclusive plan for co-ordination of Saudi Arabia, Syrian and Egyptian policy in political, military, economic and cultural fields, aiming by such co-ordination at the mobilization of all forces and their direction towards the realization of the general good of the Arab Nation."

The communique said agreement was reached on dealings with states which allow their subjects to be recruited by Israeli armed forces; towards states supplying Israel with weapons; counteraction against pressure on Arabs exerted by foreign powers through the Baghdad pact; offer of aid and support to Jordan.

3 Business Houses
Raided at Weekend

Mattock-swinging safecrackers made a $1,000 haul from a Johnson Street food warehouse overnight Saturday, the second safecracking on Vancouver Island in three days.

The yeggs hacked their way through the bottom of a safe at A. P. Slade (Victoria) Ltd., 95 Johnson Street.

Two other break-ins also are under investigation by city detectives.

About $139 was taken from Shepherd's Dairy, 1645 Fort, and $250 worth of tools and automotive equipment was stolen from Capital City Service Ltd. garage, 2650 Douglas.

Stakers Fly
To Ore Find
Near Kamloops

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Reports of a rich mineral strike 60 miles north of Kamloops, on the North Thompson river has sent a rush of prospectors and miners into the area.

Saturday a charter service was running shuttle flights into the area from Kamloops. First reports of a rich strike were received five days ago.

The vein—about 30 miles long and 25 miles wide—is believed to contain copper, zinc, lead, silver, and uranium.

Only 3 Weeks
Totem Shares

There are only three weeks left to get shares in the world's tallest totem.

The committee in charge announced today that the subscription list will be cut off at the end of March and work will then start on preparing the scroll of shareholders' names which will be buried at the foot of the totem in the dedication ceremony April 29.

Tentative target for the totem fund has been raised to $5,000. This will cover the cost of an attractive installation for the pole when the site is finally chosen by City Council.

It is planned to put an iron work fence around the base, install a plaque with an inscription, and if possible install a flood-lighting system. The budget is aimed to cover all these costs, in addition to the erection.

Shares are available at the downtown office of the Times on Broad Street, at 2631 Douglas, or by mail.

Current share total is $4,231.50.

CITY DETECTIVES Ray Maitland, and Dick Berry search remaining contents of safe at A. P. Slade Ltd. after the safe was hacked open overnight Saturday and about $1,000 stolen. (Times Photo.)
